Loss Seen as Blow to Alabama Governor and Californian

By ROY REED

MIAMI, March 9-President Ford defeated Ronald Reagan in Florida's Republican Presidential primary election today, gaining his fourth victory in as many primaries.

Jimmy Carter, the former Governor of Georgia, won the hotly contested Democratic primary. Gov George C. Wallace of neighboring Alabama finished second, suffering bis worst political setback since he was shot and seriously wounded by an assassin while campaigning at a shopping center in Laurel, Md., on May 15, 1972. The shooting ended his 1972 campaign.

Senator Henry M. Jackson of Washington, the winner of the Massachusetts primary a week ago, ran third, well behind Mr. Wallace, Next in order were no prefereoce," Gov. Milton J. Lean what's new in fashion and fabrics this spring and summer. Sev up a cool and casual wardrobe with their expert sewing hint: and aasy how-to's.

Show times: 12:30 and 5:30 pm - Thursday and Friday 12:30 and 3:30 pm - Saturday

These three days begin a whole wonderful week of fabric needlework and knitting, show and sale. Monday, March 15th to Saturday, March 20th. Right here on the 6th floor in Herald

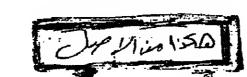

Fabrics (D.071), 6th Floor, Herald Squara only.

Our suit with stretch. It's really quite special. The fabric is a lightweight blend of polyester and wool we found in Sweden. It feels like the finest wool, yet it has the remarkable ability to stretch and spring back into shape. Needless to say, it's great for travel, exceptionally comfortable, and quite a find. In plaids, stripes and solid colors. Tailored by Southwick. $210. We accept The American Express Card.

House Panel Asks Delay on New Rule For Car Emissions

By E. W. KENWORTHY WASHINGTON, March 9-The auto industry and the Ford Administratioo won an iotermediate victory today in their campaign to delay the imple-mentation of the strongest auto emission standards of the Clear Air Act of 1970. But the victory fell considerably short of what they had sought.

The House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee defeated by a vote of 20 to 16 an amendment to the act proposed by Representative John D. Dingell, Democrat of Michigan. The amendment would have postponed from 1978 model cars to the 1983 model cars, and possibly indef initely, the imposition of stat-utory emission standards on three pollutants - hydrocar bons, carbon moooxide and oxides of nitrogen.

But the committee then approved 23 to 20, an amendment offered by Representative William M. Brodhead, Democrat of Michigan, that would deley the effective date of the statutory standards on hydrocerbons and carbon monoxide unti 1930, and the effective dete on nitrogen oxides until 1981 end possibly until 1985. Mr. Brodhend then proposed that the 1977 interim standards of 0.5 grams per mile of hydrocarbons. 15 grams of carbon monoxide and 2.0 grams of nitrogen oxides be continued through the 1978-79 models.

In 1980, the statutory standards of .41 grams for hydro-carbons and 3.4 grams for car-bon monoxide would go into effect, elong with 2.0 grams for nitrogen oxides. The statu-tory standards of 0.4 grams for nitrogen oxides would be-come effective in 1981, but the E.P.A. administrator could weive this until the 1985 mod-

"The best savings plan is a Chase Combination Checking Plan?

"We moved our savings to Chase. Because with a Chase checking and savings plan we'll save dollars, not dimes.

"Only Chase Combination Checking pays us a whopping 5.50% on our savings with a 90-day savings plan*, and gives us a choice of two ways to save on checking. It's like having two Chase Advantages in one."

If you love to save money, just tuck $1,000 into a Chase 90-day savings plan and your checking is free. No per check charges. No monthly fees. No spending, just saving. So, while you're earning high interest on your savings, you're saving money with free checking. All together, Chase Combination Checking should put you over $80 ahead for the year.

But you can start small and still be a big saver at Chase. With just $500 in savings you can have Dollar-A-Month Checking. You'll earn the same high interest on your savings and you can write all the checks you want for a flat dollar a month.

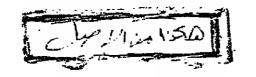

So, if you write more than one check a month, it pays to move your savings to a Chase Combination Checking Plan.

Free Checking, or Dollar-A-Month Checking Either way, the best savings plan is a Chase Combination Checking Plan. Give yourself the Chase Advantage, and save. Member F.D.I.C.

MERIT taste secret found by isolating key flavor ingredients in cigarette smoke, then adding them to tobacco.

MERIT

LOW TAR - ENHICHED FLAVOR'

In Richmond, Virginia, there's an eight-story building that houses the main Research Facility for Philip Morris.

Around the company they call it the Tower. It's here that pure research in tobacco yielded what might be the most significant smoking advance since the filter.

It's called 'Enriched Flavor.' It comes in the tobacco of a new kind of low tar cigarette. MERIT.

Only 9 mg. of tar. Yet with astonishing flavor. If you enjoy a full-flavor cigarette nowbut would like to find a low tar smoke with a taste you can switch to and stick withyou'll be interested.

Key Flavor Ingredients Of Tobacco Isolated

'Enriched Flavor' was developed by "cracking" cigarette smoke down into its basic ingredients, and isolating special key units that deliver taste way out of proportion to tar.

'Enriched Flavor' is extra flavor. Natural flavor. Flavor that can't burn out, can't fade out, can't do anything but come through for you.

We packed MERIT with 'Enriched Flavor' and began a series of taste tests.

Taste-Tested By People Like You

Thousands of filter cigarette smokers tested 9 mg. tar MERIT against five current leading low tar brands ranging from 11 mg. to 15 mg. tar.*

The results were conclusive: Even if the cigarette tested had 60% more tar, a significant majority of all smokers tested reported new 'Enriched Flavor' MERIT delivered more taste.

Repeat: delivered more taste.

In similar tests against 11 mg. to 15 mg. menthol brands, 9 mg. tar MERIT MENTHOL performed strongly too, delivering as muchor more - taste than the higher tar brands tested. You've been smoking "low tar, good taste" claims long enough. Now you've got the cigarette. MERIT. Incredible smoking pleasure at only 9 mg. tar.

"The 30% off fare applies to all of American's cities in the continental U.S.-the 35% off to selected Nightcoach cities. You must fly roundtrip. Stay from 7 to 30 days. You may make reservations any time, and must buy tickets to days later. But 14 days before departure is the deadline for making or changing reservations, and buying tickets. Seats are limited, so make plans early.

Convenient schedules make it easy to travel. Revolutionary Fares make it easy to afford.

When you're traveling for pleasure instead of business. you can save 30% or 35% off the regular Day Coach fare. (Children 2-11 fly with you for half the regular Day Coach fare.)*

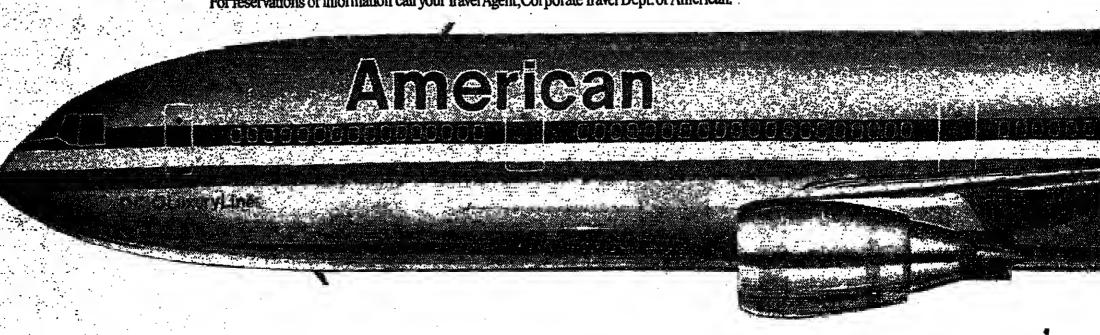

For reservations or information call your Travel Agent, Corporate Travel Dept. or American.

Entertainment, makes time pass easily.

On most nonstops, you'll be treated to the exciting epic adventure "The Man Who Would Be King." (There is a $2 headset charge in Coach.) And on most DC-10 flights, you'll also see something equally exciting-your own takeoff and landing through our exclusive Cockpit Camera.

FORD'S AIDES SEND SIGNAL TO REAGAN

Suggest He End Insurgency and Perhaps Join Party's Slate as Running Mate

By JAMES M. NAUGHTON

WASHINGTON, March 9— On the strength of President Ford's fourth straight primary victory tonight, his campaign advisers began sending signals to Ronald Reagan to end his insurgency—and perhaps join the Republican ticket as a running mate.

"I don't see any way for Reagan to win." Howard H. Callaway, the chairman of tha fight."

The clue to Mr. Reagan's relida evangelist.

ty." Mr. Morton said. "Pulling it all together is my job."

Accordingly, at the Ford campaign command post a few blocks fro mite White House. Mr. Morton and other senior advisers refused to rule out Mr. Reagan as a prospective running mate, and they made generous allowances for the formal formal Governor's sharp at tacks on Mr. Ford in recent days.

Mr. Reagan began declaring to Florida audiences last Thurs to Florida, as had been expected. There had heen speculation that Mr. Shapp, who is commodation with the Castro decline of the United States."

Asked tonight if such criticism of the President's leader-state and A New York Times/CBS had diminished the 905-state of Liconary Jewish naid that Mr. Shapp, who is last week to commodation with the Castro regime until politics intervened in recent days.

Many political experts felt that both the Democratic and Republican races had gotten closer in the last days of the temporary repeated had been formal from the last days of the campaigning. BAYH DELEGATES SEEK STATE SHIFT

Aide Reports Sentiment for Humphrey and Udall in Primary on April 6

By MAURICE CARROLL The New York delegate slates that were cast adrift when Senator Birch Bayh suspended his Presidential campaign could shift either to Senator Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota or Representativa Morris K. Udall of Arizona, a spokesman said

There is "considerable sentiment," said Ethan Geto, who was director of the Bayh campaign in New York, both for Mr. Humphrey, who is not a declared candidate, and Mr. Udall, who has described him-self as the leading liberal left on the New York ballot.

"Out top priority is stopping Henry Jackson and Jimmy Carter," said Mr. Geto.

He said that the Bronx borough president, Robert Abrams, who was chairman of the Bayb campaign in New York, was trying to move its remnants as a bloc. Persistent soundings, he said, turned up support for both Mr. Humphrey and Mr. slates are running uncommitted for the first time this week toward one candidate or the other."

Those pushing for Mr. Udall were hampered, according to some persons involved in the talks, by doubts about the strength of his commitment to the New York race, while those pushing for Mr. Humphrey were hampered by fears that he might repudiate their efforts and that, since ha is not a declared candidate, there would be no ready source of campaign money.

Support for Humphrey

"but to translate that into delegates is something else."

To keep qualifying for Federal matching funds, Mr. Bayh has not officially abandoned as primary election on April 27.

As a result Mr. Harris will run, "but not make major efforts," in the Illinois primary election next Tuesday and in delegates—both in listing on races on April 6. He hopes to raise $200,000 and invest that bulk of his time in overcoming his persistent name recogning his persistent Place names represent a state of miod, a condition of life, and there is much that is attached to theme. For some, living up the hill in Riverdale is incomparably more elevating than living down the hill in the Bronx. although Riverdale is as much the Bronx as Hunt's Point is.

Harlem is one of New York's best-known place names. It is a word that has little to do with the old boundaries of the little town of Harlem is northero Manhattan. It is applied to the uptown black community in Manhattan and makes no allowances for the many dif-ferent neighborhoods and life styles that abound within Harlem.

There are those who say that wheo something had happeos, the beadlines place it in Harlem. If something good occurs, it happens in uptown Manhattan.

There is sometimes a bit of jockeying for notice. A guide on one tour bus making the rounds of uptowo black Manhattan, placed Jumel Mansion in Harlem, although many New Yorkers have always put it in Washiogtoo Heights.

Some pareots from Queens were visiting their son at a summer camp that prides itself on baving youngsters of sil economic and ethnic backgrounds oo its rosteer.

Their son said, with some pride, that a bunkmate lived on Park Avenue, The parents, delighted that Park Avenue was cheek by jowl with Union Turnpike in a democratic environment, were introduced to the lad. He was a charming boy who spoke Spanish and lived on Park Avenue near 110th Street. The parents were surprised, but they realized that Park Avenue, like true democracy, moves in more than one direction. In the Jewish communities, one could always measure progress by place names. Rules on School Records Still Unclarified IN JOINT SESSION

By GENE I. MAEROFF

The first of a series of final regulations for the implementation of a law that gives parents and students the right to inspect school records has been published by the Faderal Government. But the issue of whather some educational institutions may be exempt from the law has been taft unctarified.

The changa in the Elamantary and Secondary Educa-tion Act is called the Buckley Amandment for Sanator Jamas L. Bucklay. Conserva-tiva-Rapublican of Naw York, who sponsored it in the Senate. It went into effect in January 1975.

Most schools, coltages and univarsitias have cooperated — albeit rejuctantly — with the controversial measure, but thera hava been questions raised by some institu-tions as to the Federal Government's authority to require compliance in all

Erick Friedman Plays First of 2 Concerts

By HAROLD C. SCHONBERG Erick Friedman, current incumbent of the Mischa Elman Chair at the Manhattan School of Music, played the first of two concerto concerts last night in Carnegie Hall. The name of Mischa Elman is invoked, because it wes not too many years ago that the late Russian-American violinist played his concerto series with the National Orchestral Association. There is nothing new in the con-cept, though pianists do it more frequently than violinists. The repertory of pianists is so much higger. Mr. Friedman, with the American Symphony Orchestra under Izler Solomon. played three concertos-the Wieniawski D minor, the Sibelius and the Brahms. Mr. Friedman always has been a devotee of the 19th-century literature, and in that he takes after his famous teacher, Jascha Heifetz.

But, alas, Mr. Friedman does not have the poised aristocracy of a Heifetz. Nor does he have the technique; there were patches of un-steady playing here and there, a few problems of prosaic. Nothing was wrong, but one felt that a violinist of Mr. Friedman's potential should be doing so much Much the same can be said of his performance of the Brahms Violin Concerto. It had lovely moments, and there weer parts of the slow almost convinced that a great violinist was in action. Then would come a heavy or care-lessiy played passage that destroyed the illusion.

Mr. Solomon, who has not been around New York much in receot years, conducted the three concertos like the experienced musician he is.

calist, she is an artistic singer who can phrase with real elegance, and did so Monday

William Dooley made a fine Fanioal, and minor roles were generally well sung. Mr. Levine's conducting was eothusiastic, es it generally is. He will be finding more subtleties in the score as be grows ioto it. Right now there is movement but not much personality. There are sections of "Der Rosenkavalier" that cry for a tender, supple hand. Mr. Levine had e tendency to Ignore the sentiment of the music and stick to rather metrocomic tempos. He also was responsible for outsized sonorities that took one up with a joit.

As the Marschallin, Miss Zylis-Gara emphasized the womenly rather than the aristocratic aspects of the Princess von Werdenberg. She too is a fine artist, with a lovely, lyric sound that, without forcing, can expand to take care of any dramatic situation. If her dramatic conception left something to he desired, her vocalism was more than adequate compensation. Walter Berry was the Baron Ochs and Judith Bergen the Sophie. There have been more resonant voices than Mr. Berry's. But there have been very few equivalent characterizations. Mr. Berry is a young looking, lusty, confident Ochs, very much in charge of the situation. It is not that be does not turn in fine singing. He does, in his gruff-sounding way. But here the conception rather than the sloging is the important thing. Miss Blegen bad both the conception and the singing. She la a Sophie lovely to look at and lovely to bear. She has the figure to act the girl-into-woman aspects of the role, and the young-sounding, floating soprano to handla the high tessitura that Strauss wrote into it.

Wheo this production was unveiled at the Metropolitan Opera soma years back, there was general happiness about the handsome decor of the Nathaniel Merrill - Robert O'Hearn collaboration. There also were soma complaints about slapstick routines. There still is rather too much slapstick, though a great deal of that is built into the opera, and severe critics are much more likely to be bothered by it than Richard Strauss himself was. Monday's was a well-sung, handsome, utterly professional super-grand-opera performance of "Der Rosenkavalier." And it can only get better as the season goes

Curtain Rising on Britain's National

By BERNARD WEINTRAUB Special to The New York Times

LONDON, March 9-"Do the English people want a national theatre? Of course they do not. They never want anything. They have got the British Museum, the National Gallery and Westminster Abbey, but they never wanted them. But once these things stood as mysterious phenomena that bad come to them they were quite proud of them, and felt that they would be incomplete without them", George Bernard Shaw,

It was first suggested in 1848. It ook 101 years before both bouses of Parliament passed the National Theater Bill that vowed Government support. It is 12 years since the appointment of Denys Lasdun, an architect much influenced by Le Corbusier, and 10 years since the decision was taken to build. Six years ago work finally began on the five-acre site.

At long last, even as work-men and engineers thrust pneumatic drills and ham-mers onto the unborn stages of two of the three new theaters, Britain is poised to welcome a $32 million landmark beside the Waterloo Bridge on the Thames: the new Na-

"Plunder." Construction delays, rising labor coats and controversy have marked the opening of the National Theater, whose company was born in 1962, under Laurence Olivier, and lodged at the Old Vic theater for 12 years up to the move. Lord Olivier, in frail health, was succeeded in 1973 by Peter Hall, who created tha Royal Shakespeare Company and was its director from 1960 until 1968.

Mr. Hall, faced with money shortages and uncertainty over tha unveiling of the site, decided to plunge for-ward and open the one theater that was completed. "Getting in is the only real achievement I'd lay claim to just at the moment," he said recently.

"Of course in an ideal world it would have been impressive and even glorious to open three theaters on the same day." he said. "But ... we realized we had to get part of the house, any part, working. It was exactly like a family building their own bome, and realizing they who sit below." At this point it seems evident that Mr. Hall and, for that matter, the British Government are awaiting the start of the National Theater with a hlend of nervousness and awe. Costs have increased beyond anyone's expectation, and the National estimates that half our total costs, or a little less, are expected to come from box office and other receipts and balf from subsidy." The Government's Arts Council is set to spend $4 million on an anual subsidy for the theater, with an added $600,000 provided by the Greater London Council. The theater itself—with a staff of 500 and 100 actors—says it will raise at least $4 million a year, out bases this on at least one highly optimistic assumption: that all three theatres will be $5 percent full six nights a week, 52 weeks a year. At the 800-seat Old Vic. the National played last year to $5 percent audiences. In the new complex, there are 2,450 seats to fill. Regional Effect Cited Critics have said that the theater's spiraling costs will swallow up more and more Government money and that Britain's strong regional theater will suffer as a resuit. Mr. Hall strongly denied this,

"If the National theater's costs, already pared to the bone, become any kind of threat to the health of the very profession that theater exists to nourish, then it exists to nourish, then it would be a negation of what we stand for. The new Na-tional Theater is intended to serve the theater at large: to increase audiences; to pro-vide a focus; to give more work to actors and directors and more opportunities to playwrights: to loan its stag-es to regional and fringe theaters when and if it wants

"Of course there are going to be criticisms," the director has said, "There will be brickbats from time 10 time when we give a platform to the alternative theater. The extreme left has already accused me of selling out A big new venture is hound to excite strong feelings for and against. But we have Denys Lasdun's magnificent huilding with its marvelous riverside site. We have the company. We have some promising ideas, it's a start."

GREEN-UP TIME The Green Guerrillas are coming. Who are they? A volunteer group of some 30 amateur and professional garden-growers, including a number of botanists and horticulturists at local botanical gardens, who for three years have roamed all five boroughs encouraging, counseling and performing work on community gardens. The group's first greenery project was at the corner of Broadway and Houston Street; they're busy now creating a new oasis in the South Bronx. Tonight they welcome the garden-minded public to a meeting and discussion session at 8 o'clock at P.S. 166, at 132 West 89th Street (between Columbus and Amster-dam Avenues). The free program will start with an hourlong slide film summarizing the Green Guerrillas' endeavors over three years, ranging from garden plants and flowers to special-interest areas such as barbequa pits, fenced-in dog runs, recrea-tion sections and recycling when the ballets are right, it can look lovely.

There are certain technical failings in the company that are frankly shown up by the Balanchina ballets. The dancers are young and green-as well as black. And their stylishness is not always backed up by their style. Sometimes this is worrying.
For example in "Concerto Barocco," where the gorgeously gracious Lydia Abarca was partnered by Virginia Johnhon and Roman Brooks, the pace of the work did not seem quite right. Or rather it was the technical tone that seemed lacking. Steps were performed th space and on time, but without quite the proper ampli-tude. Knees could have been more stretched, feet more pointed, timing more interesting, and the whole ballet could have had a closer rela-

"Agon" was as good as City Ballet—It had the right surge and enargy, the right crest and impulse. This beantifully computer-styled work by Balanchine and Stravin-sky is a most wonderful trac-ing of movement io time and space. It. is a cubic work, with lines of force darting here and there on their own predestined patterns like flashes of electricity. Plotless and ver with a there of life. and yet with a theme of life and combat, "Agon" can be one of Balanchine's most exciting ballets. Here it was. The Harlem company has its measure in a way that still measure in a way that still eludes tham in "Concerto Barocco." I was perhaps most impressed by Miss Abarca: (a major ballerina) and Mel Tomlinson in the final pas de deux, but all the dancers seemed to grasp the spring in Stravinsky's music and the special undertow of and the special undertow of lem company is very sensibly attempting is the development of a special style, what might be called a "black classic style." It can be seen in many works by such choreographers as Louis Johnson, Mr. Holder, and, of course, in Mr. Beatty's vibranily rhapsodic "Caravan-serai." This is the kind of ballet that bounces into the dawn, and the company, particularly perhaps Paul Russell, dance it with love and Balanchine's choreography.

" 'The Killing of a Chinese Bookie' is a sod, eerie, moanish mavie from the gifted Jahn Cassavetes. Like other Cossavetes wark it is quirky, eccentric, flawed. Yet it bears the unmistakoble stomp of this impetuously talented writer-director, and manages ta do things -that we have never seen an-screen befare... primarily it is a movie of moad, a tone paem in garish reds and blues. It is a requiem for a lightweight, an elegy for ane af life's lasers who would atherwise have eluded aur attention os well as our understanding."

"Ben Gazzara's portrayal af Casma is both burly and finely tuned; his gestures comprise an onthology af lockluster bravura, while his eyes simultaneously betroy inner weakness and call up all the sympathy we can muster . . . na ane captures textures as Mr. Cassavetes does. And no one has quite the same way of aiming o camera at the emotianol center, rather than the physical ar narrative center, of a scene. It is a rough-and-ready brand at moviemaking, but it zeroes in an visual truths.

The trouble with Massecet is that it is difficult to take him seriously except when he is being charming, as in "Manon." When, as in "Le Cid." he tries to be set only Cid," he tries to be not only serious but also epically serious, one's impulse is to avert the ears in embarrassment. This was pure C. B. de Mille stuff, with Placido Domingo rather than Charlton Heston up front, striking monumen-tal poses. To the great credit of Miss Queler, her performance made the most of the work's musical appeal, though without hiding its essential dramatic emptiness and unheavenly lengths. Except for about 10 minutes worth of music, the score was given

We oeeded and we got Miss Queler's honest testi-mony about a work that was wildly popular wheo the Paris Opera was still in the grip of Meyerbeer, but that seems not to have had a major production in this country prodoction in this country since 1902, at the Chicago Opera. She marshaled a strong cast that included Grace Melzia Bumbry as Chimeoe; Mr. Domingo as Rodrigue; the Cid himself; Paul Plishka as Don Diegue, Jake Gardner as the King, Eleaoor Bergquist as the In-Voketaitls as the Compte de Gormas.

The Byrne Camp Chorale pitched ioto the piece with admirable fervor, and there were good contributions in small solo parts from Cliotoo Ingram, Theodore Hodges, Peter Lightfoot and John Adams. For the record, lit-

Are we in for a squishy wallow in the nether operas of Massenet? The Metropolitan Opera has announced his "Esclarmonde" for next season, and Eve Queler's Opera Orchestra of New York revived his "Le Cid" in a convived his "Le Cid" in a convited his "Le Cid" in which her tative first act in which her upper voice sounded rather bard and pinched, warmed to her work so well that by the time she came to her big aria, "Pleurez! pleurez, mes yeux!," the house was hers. She is a dramatic soprano these days rather than a mezzo, and while ber top still has more metal in it than velvet, her exciting lower ranges more than make up for any upper-voice strain.

Mr. Domingo, too, sounded under stress in the early going, but pulled through with stentorian outbursts that ecormously delighted his idolators io the sold-out hall. However, the man of the evening had to he Mr. Plishka, whose dark bass had a true cantabile suppleness to It, and emotional shadings that Mr. Domingo apparently does not have to snaings that air. Domingo apparently does not have to offer his bellowing fan club.

Every successful work at the Paris Opera in the last century ("Le Cid" was first dooe in 1885) had to have its extensive ballet for the amusement of the Jockey Club, and this one delivers a particularly lively one—20 particularly lively one—20 minutes' worth and the opera's most familiar music. A glaring lapse by the cellos during the ballet suite was the meet regions instrumental. the most serious instrumental problem of the night, which Miss Queler ruled over with exceptional authority. Massecet's excesses, certainly, were not the conductor's fault (at the climax of Act II, a listener could only think that the cymbal player had fallen into the bass drum and the whole percussion section had been dynamited by terrorists).

Mr. Domingo, hy the way, wishes it disclosed that this revival of "Le Cid" was bis idea, agreed to by Miss Queler, Done.

Juilliard Ensemble in Shostakovich Quartet

By RAYMOND ERICSON

Dmitri Sbostakovich's String Quartet No. 15 (Op. 144), in its first professional performance in the United States, was the central work in the "Celebration of Contemporary Music" program in the Juilliard Theater on Monday night. It is thought to be the next-to-last work writteo by the Russian composer before his death last August.

Despite its conservative style, it is a daring piece in a way, the kind that only someooe at the composer's stage of life might indulge himself in. It is a 35-minute uninterrupted adagio that flows through six sections, indicatively titled Elegy, Serenade, Intermezzo, Nocturne, Funeral March and Epilogue. The writing is extremely lean, the thematic phrases often dangerously simple—three repeated notes, for example.

There are bursts of action; the Intermezzo is largely a brisk cadenza for the first violin and the Epilogua hrightens with shimmering figurations. There are possible enigmatic references to such key musical works as the Bach Chaconne and Wagner's "Tristan und

As a whole, it is so spare and elegiac that it asks for a kind of submission by the listeoer to its extended quiet simplicity. The submission may well be worth it, for in its special fashion the work is beautiful. It was played superhly by the Juilliard Quartet. There couldn't have been a more persuasive case made for it than the sustained brooding intensity of this performance.

The Juilliard ensemble also played two imposing works that it first performed: the late Stefan Wolpe's String Quartet, giveo its premiere in 1969, and Elliott Carter's String Quartet No. 3, given its premiere in 1973, Wolpe's is an intricate work that is still relatively easy to listen to. Its closely designed mosaic of short ideas, coostantly transformed, has a transparency that makes it extraordinarily attractive.

Mr. Carter's terribly com-plex piece is literally a quar-tet divided against itself. One violin and the cello go one way, the other violin and the viola go another. Ooe pair has four movements, the other six movements, and the two sets revolve at different speeds, so as to overlap in different ways. It becomes a fascinating game to listen for the permutations of resultant sound. It is a tour de force for the performers, and the Juliliard Quartet carried it off with almost incredible brilliance.

Elmar Oliveira Gains Stature as Violinist

By JOHN ROCKWELL

Ordinarily, one applauds when a violinist avoids the when a violinist avoids the flashy display pieces that characterize the 19th-century virtuoso repertory. But in the case of Elmar Oliveira Monday night at Alice Tully Hall, a little more flash would a little more flash would have been instructive.

Mr. Oliveira is the 1975 Naumburg Foundation violin winner, and be is clearly a violinist of stature. From a technical standpoint, his best work came at the end, in a really eochaoting account of the Chaussoo "Poeme." The enchantment was partly a matter of his chaste, self-cootained interpretive approach But the purity was obtained by a secure, complete technique, with such accuracy of pitch that ooe never even thought about it.

Mr. Oliveira's artistic depth goes heyood purity, too. His decision to program Karel Husa's Sooata for Violin and Piano (1972-73) betrayed the inquisitive mind, and his mastery of the work was impressive especially considering the technical hurdles Mr. Husa has built his piece

Elsewhere, there was Leclair's Sonata in D (Op. 9, No. 3), dispatched with seositivity and nice period style; Beethoven's Sonata No. 7 in Beethoven's Sonata No. 7 in C mioor (Op. 30, No. 2) and Jascha Heifetz's transcrip-tions of the three Grshwin Preludes, with everything ac-companied helpfully by Ed-mund Battersby. The Gershwin had a decently idiomatic flair, but the Beethoven, for all its neatness, sounded a little tame.

Mr. Oliveira has plenty of 19th-century pieces in his repertory, and one would hate to see him lapse into them just to prove he can-But it's hard to make an international career without them, and one wonders just a bit if be has the requisite

The players' association,

Davis missed his first fiva shots and finished with a 4-for-15 shooting effort. His most important contribution was his rebounding. He had seven in the first quarter. But the bigger hero was Wingo. In 15 minutes of playing time, he scored 13 points, 9 in the final quarter. He also had four key rebounds. Wingo went to work against Los Angeles with the Knicks ahead by 90-84 and almost six minutes to play. While the Lakers tried to close the Continued on Page 32, Column 3 in mixed doubles.

Jack Dreyfus Jr., chairman of the board of the New York Racing Association, will recommend to the trustees today an innovation so up-to-date, functional and altogether desirable that George D. Widener will still be whirling in his grave on Belmont Stakes Day, It is an working in his ge, similar to a monster television screen, that will enable racing fans to see the races they attend. The late Mr. Widener was a gentleman of bonor and distinction who shared the view of others in the New York racing establishment that catering to the public was undignified if not downright vulgar. "What do you think we're running here?" he demanded when Bob Kelley, the public The Times relations chief, wanted a band that could play something besides "Pomp and Circumstance" on Belmont Day. "A race track or a circus?"

The Widener Chute, designed by a man named Braille, was a straightaway that began in Floral Park, L. L, and slanted across the Belmont infield at an angle that successfully concealed from prying spectators almost everything that happened on the track, including the identity of the leader. That masterpiece of camouflage is gone now, but it is still next to impossible for a bettor on the grandstand lawn to see what happens on Aqueduct's seven-furlong chuta or on the backstretch at Belmont.

Jack Drevius, a member of the grandstand moh by choice when he goes racing, has watched fans hopping up and down and craning, not at the distant blobs of color but at the tote board where numbers of the front four horses are flashing on and off.

"Tune in a football game from the New Orleans Superdome," he told Gov. Hugh Carey, "and see how often the fans who are right there with a view of the game prefer to watch the TV screens overhead. If they find TV helpful when they're right there, then a race track can't afford not to have these much bigger screens. It's a necessity, not an extravagance."

"I told him to go ahead and order It," the Governor said recently.

Good, Clean Fun

The screen, produced by Stewart-Warner Corporation Electronics Division, isn't television because a television image can't be seen in sunlight. It is a grid of tiny lights that make a picture not in true color but it looks like color, with sharp enough definition to show saddlecloth numbers and similar details. It would cost about $2.5 million for a screen about 15 feet high and 25 feet long out front in the area of the tote board and a slightly smaller screen somewhere on the other side of the standa like the paddock area at Belmont. This, of course, in addition to the small clused-circut screens now indoors.

Dreyfus isn't sure there is time to have the equipment for next summer, assuming the trustees give their approval today. It is only one of many changes he has discussed with Governor Carey, who realizes that for all practical purposes the state owns racing and the nonprofit N.Y.R.A. merely runs it for the state.

This is an industry that returns a profit of threequarters of a billion to the state in 10 years," Dreyfus was saying yesterday, "yet the banks that have lent us money hold us to $1.5 million a year in capital improvements. Considering the economy and the population explosion, the sport should be growing but the daily average attendance has declined steadily from 29,565 in 1954 to 20,564 last year," That includes Saratoga, which has shown small

"We've got to do two things: make all the essential physical improvements on both the froot sida and backstretch and do everything possible to make the sport fun, and we must avoid gouging the clients. Time and again in the past when racing was in straits or the state needed more money, the quick remedy was to increase the prica of the merchandise by raising the mutuel takeout.

Cinder in the Public Eye

"The present take of 18 percent is ruinous. That's 17 percent plus breakage, which I call leakage. The stata gets 10 percent, the track 4 and the horsemen 3 percent. We dropped the take to 14 percent in a 65-day experiment and sharply increased our business, but not enough to make up in dollars for the reduction.

"Such an experiment needs more time because the average fellow doesn't notice the difference with his mind. His wallet has to realize it. I believe a three-year experiment would stimulate growth of the sport and increase revenue. I'd like to drop the takeout to 14 percent with no breakage for three years and if that succeeded as I think it would, drop it to 13 percent for two years and to 12

"Suppose a man has $180 to lose and he drops $18 a day, In 10 days he's finished. If be lost only $14 a day, he would have $40 left after 10 days and could enjoy bis sport two or three additional days. He would have fewer losing days and more winning days and more fun all around. "New York racing should command the attention of the whole world. We should have the biggest international races here, all the best horses, the biggest purses. Take the horsemen, a group that must lose. How was it Herman Hickman wanted the Yale alumni when he was football coach there-sullen but not mutinous? I'm afraid the horsemen are closer to mutiny. I hear there's a failure of communication between us, though I communicate all I can,

"I'm afraid that on a job like this, communication means pleasing everybody. As somebody has said, when you're in the public eye you're treated like a cinder."

And under those rules his suspension, which was an-nounced as March 12 through April 10 inclusive, will be in effect throughout North America — even at tracks where Phenylhutazone is permitted.

Vance's defense, his lawyer iodicated might cenaround the New York rule that holds trainers and assistant trainers responsible for their borses' care, al-though the trainer himself might not have administered the outlawed drug.

Power Bea was not in Vanca's care long. The geld-ing, bred and raced by R. L. Edwards in the state of Washington—where he was a stakes winner—had been run unsuccessfully at Bay Mead-ows, outside San Francisco, before shipping here for a claiming race Jan. 24. In that race Power Bea finished third and was claimed for $10,000 by Lasa-

At Aqueduct . . . With snow covering the construction work in the infield, Aqueduct looked better, than it bas io recent weeks yesterday. A crowd of 10,077 was not deterred by the storm and Ron Turcotte completed his appointed rounds in the first two races successfully, winning both balves of the deily double and in-creasing his lead in the jock-ey standing. Turcotte rode two horses trained by Joe Moos, Black Money in the first and Fairfield Lad, for a $15.200 double, The Canadian rider also won with Forest Stream in the seventh and now has 69 victories at this

Jorge Velasquez is second with 61, including the winner of yesterdays $25,000 feature, Bold and Fancy. The triple in the ninth race paid a whopping $7,082, sparked by the first place finish of Li'l Tommie ($35.60), ridden by Pat Day.

At Bowie . . .

Bowie Race Course canceled its scheduled nine-race thoroughbred card because of icy road conditions brought on by a snowstorm. A track spokesman said the entire card bad heen scratched and racing was scheduled to re-sume today with another card already drawn.

The Saab Philosophy, No. 2 in a Series:

"WE BELIEVE HOW FAST A CAR GOES SLOW IS AS IMPORTANTA HOW FAST A CAR GOES FAST."

When you're heading down the highway at 55 mph, you probably don't think about how fast you can stop. Until somebody stops in front of you.

We thought about it, however. when we first designed the Saab. And that's why we equipped it with big, power-assisted disc brakes on all four wheels (not just two like a lot of cars).

Of course, braking is only important if you're going, so we gave the Saab a strong, two-liter, fuel-injected overhead cam engine to get it going.

And to make the driver and pas sengers feel even more secure, the Saab has front-wheel drive, rackand-pinion steering and roll cage con struction.

To really appreciate the Saab Philosophy, however, you must drive the result, the new Saab 99 GL. It wil make you a believer...fast.

Free-Agent Ruling Upheld

given club owners reason to expect the arbitration panel to rule against Messersmith and McNally, the Na-tional League pitchers who contended they were free agents because they had played in 1975 without signing a contract.

Richard Moss, the Players' association counsel, argued for the players at the arbi-tration hearing and Seitz ruled last Dec. 23 that they were free agents. The renewal clause in their cootracts, he said, gave their clubs the right to keep them for only one additional year and not in perpetuity as the owners

The owners took their casa to the United States District Court in Kansas Ciry, arguing that Seitz did not have the authority to hear tha players' grievance. An article in the basic agreement pre-cluded arbitration in matters involving the reserve system, they said.

However, Judge John W.
Oliver ruled that Seitz acted property in hearing the case and the owners went ahead to a higher court, only to lose again.
McNally, who left tha

Montreal Expos during the 1975 season has no intention of playing again, but Messer-smith has been waiting at his home in Newport Beach, Calif., for a decision that would enable him to begin negotiating with other clubs. Now the former Los Angeles Dodger will have to wait only seven more days, until next Tuesday when the appellate court decision takes effect. Usually, the court pro-vides a 21-day period for possible motions by the loser in a case. The reduced period of a week was seen as an indication that the court pret certain provisions of the would grant neither a stay of judgment nor a rehearing to the owners.

Herb Osmond, Messersmith's agent, said in Newport Beach that he would wait until next Tuesday to begin his talks with other clubs, but he acknowledged that one owner already had told him he wanted to sign the right-hander who has won 39 games in the last two Seasons.

Messersmith declined to sign a contract with the Dodgers last season because they wouldn't give him the right to approve a trade. Just before the arbitration hearing, the Dodgers offered him that right along with a threeyear contract worth $540,000. but he chose to proceed with the arbitration

The owners' argument in the appeal heard in Kansas City Feb. 20 was centered on their contention that an article in the basic agreement excluded the reserve system from arbitration and the renewal clause, they said, was part of the reserve system.

The evidence presented,

Judge Heaney wrote, "does not show that the parties clearly intended to exclude reserve system disputes from arbitration. . . it may be said that the arbitration panel's decision did not change the reserve system, but merely interpreted various elements thereof under circumstances that had not previously arisen. The 1973 agreement empowered the arbitration panel to 'interpret, apply or determine compliance with the provisions of agreement' between the players and the clubs. We find that the arbitration panel did nothing more than to inter-uniform player's contract and the major league rules."

Therefore, Judge Heaney concluded, "we hold the arbitration panel had juridiction to hear and decide the Messersmith-McNally grievances, that the panel's award drew its essence from the collective bargaining agreement and that the relief fashioned by the District Court was appropriate."

Commissioner Bowie Kuhn. who testified during the arbitration hearing that he had the authority to rule on the grievance but chose to leave it in arbitration because he respected the procedure, had nothing to say on the court decision itself.

"Regardless of the deci-on," Kubo said in a stalement, "I think the clubs and players should meet on a daily basis until an agreement is reached."

The club's Player Relations Committee and the players' association's executive board will meet in Tampa, Fla., tomorrow and the negotiating teams for both sides will resume their talks in St. Petersburg Friday.

They probably achieve any progress in their talks, though, until they re-solve the problem of existing contracts. No matter what agreement is reached on a reserve system, the players say, they still would be able to become free agents under the renewal clause in their present contracts.

Miller has argued that he canoot bargain away the players' rights under their individual contracts, despite what the owners say.

Inquiries Asked Into Islanders' Policy

State Attorney General Louis Lefkowitz and Richard M. Kessel, in a memo asking Nassau County Consumer Affairs Commissioner James Picken to investigate the Islanders' policy, called it improper, immoral and possibly illegal. New Stadium Plan Loses in Minnesota

ST. PAUL, March 9 (UPI) -The proposed new sports stadium near downtown Minneapolis today appeared to be a dead issue, killed shortly before midnight in a 6-8 vote by the Senate Committee on Metropolitan and Urban Affairs.

The plan was to build a 65,000-seat, $46.5 million open sports facility in Industry Square near the west bank of the University of Minnesota. The school as well as the pro Minnesota Twins and Minnesota Vikings would have used it.

"This hill is dead," said Senator John Chenoweth, coauthor and committee chairman "The Senate has acted." Senator Robert North, who had done much of the work in drafting the bill and guid-ing it through a joint subcommittee, agreed that the measure was lost. A move to reconsider was possible, but North and Chenoweth said they were not interested in making such a move.

Coaches Acclaim N.I.T. R

By GORDON S. WHITE Jr. Dick McDonald, the basketball coach at St. Peter's College, said yesterday, "I don't think the National Collegiate Athletic Association is going to be able to kill off the N.I.T."

The N.C.A.A. has been accused for years of attempting to drive the National Invitato drive the National invisi-tion Tournament out of busi-ness. Of course, N.C.A.A. of-ficials have denied this for years. The N.I.T., which is the oldest postseason college baskethall tournament, began in 1938, one year before the N.C.A.A. beld its first basket-ball championship tour-nament.

McDonald said. "The Commissioners Tournament was the latest attempt to kill off the N.I.T. And I blame the N.C.A.A. for that Commisaioners Tournament."

The Commissioners Tournament was a postseason affair set up for eight Conference second-place teams: It lasted two years and faded out this year because of lack of interest also the N.C.A.A. of interest. Also, the N.C.A.A. opened its tourney to conference also-rans when the field was increased from 25 to 32 teams last year.

McDonald, whose St. Pe-ter's team meets Holy Cross in the first round of tha 39th annual N.I.T. at Madison Square Garden on Saturday night, spoke at the end of a long news conference-luncheon at the Garden. He and other coaches of N.I.T.-

bound teams indicated the tournament was very much alive and kicking despite some feelings it may be fading if it does not draw good crowds this time. McDonald said, "The N.C.A.A. increasing its field to 32 teams sort of took care of the Commissioners Tournament runner-up teams and may bava hurt tha N.I.T. But it didn't."

Niagara's coach, Frank Layden, said, 'I hope the N.C.A.A doesn't try to stop N.C.A.A. doesn't try to stop the N.I.T. I don't know that they have tried to do so, but if they do, those kind of people shouldn't be in education." Niagara plays Kentucky in the opening game of the N.I.T. Samrday at I P.M. at I P.M.

Layden played in the N.LT. theree times (1953, '54 and '55) and will be coaching in an N.I.T. for the third time—all with Niagara. He coached Niagara in the 1981 N.I.T. as an assistant and.

N.I.T. as an assistant and in 1972 as head coach.
Layden said, "I'd rather be in this N.I.T. than be playing in Denton, Texas. That's where we'd be if we had won at Syracuse." Syracuse beat Niagara in the Eastern College Athletic Conference New York State regional final at Syracuse last gional final at Syracuse last Saturday and therefore was assigned to meet Texas Tech in the first round of the N.C.A.A. tournament.

Introducing The Beginner's Lease.

It's a 3-year lease, with all the Avis advantages. Plus one extra special advantage: You can end the lease after only 90 days. And your only obligation would be to buy the car at a price you've agreed to in advance. The Avis Beginner's Lease. The beginning of a beautiful friendship.

Pick up this great Lancia in Europe and save over $500: If you order a Lancia Beta here in America, you can pick it up in Italy and save over $500 compared to suggested retail price in the U.S. Compared to suggested retail price in the LLS.

Choose the Lancia Beta Coupe, 4-door Sedan, or HPE Estate Wagon. They come with front-wheel drive, a 5-speed transmission. 4-wheel disc brakes, fully reclining bucket seats, an adjustable steering column, and deep, plush carpeting. What's more, when you return home, your Lancia Beta will be a great souvenir of all the good times you had. See your New York Metro Lancia dealer or

Assessing Real Estate for Taxation At 100 Percent of Full Market Value

By CHARLES KAISER The typical Manhattan apartment dweller is hardly preoccupied with real-estate tax assessments, while the Queens homeowner is always complaining about his unfair property taxes.

Yet typically the tax burden on the apartmeot huilding is proportionately more than twice as high, as it is for the single-family home in Queens, and up to 30 percent of the Manhattan tenant'a rent is going to property taxes

Consolidated Edison's rates are among the highest in the nation. One important reason is the company's high fuel costs; the other is the real-estate tax, which accounts for 10 cents of every dollar of revenua the compamy collects because the city's utilities are taxed at a higher "effective rate" than any other class of property.

New construction of all types of housing is at a etandatili io New York City. But by passing a bill last December that effectively ex-empts hotels, office, an loft buildings from real-estate taxes for 10 years if they are converted into apart-ments, the City Council bas spurred a small cooversion

The real-estate tax has an ecormous impact on bousing costs, utility rates, and in some instances, the deterioration or rejuveoation of a neighborhood. But despite its importance, the fairness of the assessment system on which the tax ie based bas oever become an important issue for the majority of New York City residents or the politicians who represent

Few See Tax Bills

One reason may be that in the oatioo's largest renter city, most residents oever see a real-estate tax bill or understand its significance. Another is the preoccupation of tenants, laodlords and housing specialists with the city's morass of rent-con-trol regulations and what to do about them.

But real-estate taxes, and in particular, the way in which property assessments are made, havebecome hotly contested Issues this year because of the State Legislature's efforts to pass a new law to deal with the poteotial impact of a two-year-old decision by the State Court of Appeals.

In essence, all the court did was to rule that the law covering real-property taxation meant what it says: that all property shall be as-sesed "at the full value there-

But because politics and tradition have loog dictated that the state law be ignored in practice, the consequences of enforcing it would be revolutionary.

To take just one example, the tax bill of the singlefamily bomeowner in New York City might double. Since the legislators rep-

A seminar on teaching methods will be beld, as part of a conference for teachers of adults, at George W. Hewlett High School, Hewlett, L.I., oo Saturday, March 20, at 10:30 A.M.

Organizer of the seminar, and moderator of the panel discussion, is David Flaumen-baft of North Woodmere, L.I. One of his favorite teaching deals is shown to the diagram.

It illustrates the value of an attacking opening lead in special circumstances.

The Traditional Way

According to traditional rules, the South band with its seveo playing tricks qualifies for a vulnerable three-heart hid. However, many experts are more aggressiva than this, and would bid four hearts. They would risk con-ceding a penalty of 800 points, but if that happeced the opposents would be likely to have a slam available to them in their best suit.

The openiog pre-emptive bidder must be more cautious

when he is vulnerable, and conversely the responder must regard being vulcerebla as a reason for aggressive action. In this case, resenting bomeowners bave ued to collect the same amount always been most aware of of revenue from property the political implications of property taxes, they are leading the battle to change the law to preserve the status quo for at least two years.

Background

Tha total real-estate tax paid by a property owner is the result of two oumbers: the assessment on his property and the tax rate in his municipality.

For example, if a Manhattan apartment house is assessed at $100,000, at the. current New York City tax rate of $8.187 for every $100 of assessed value, the building's annual tax bill would be $8.187.

While there is only one tax rate for the city, every class of property—office buildings, apartment build-ings, single-family homes and so oo—is assessed at a different percentage of its "market value," the price it would bring if it were put up for

Manhattan office buildings are assessed, on the average, at 70 percent of market value. But the Queens bomeowner only pays taxes on 27.3 percent of the market value of his home, according to figures compiled by the Stata Board of Equalization and Assessment Manhattan apartment buildings are aseessed at an average of 66 percent of market value.

These are the discrepencies that have led tax-reform advocates to conteod that certain classes of property owners are carrying a dis-proportionate share of the real-estate tax burden, in violation of state law as it. has been interpreted by the courts .

Equally important in the minds of these reformers are tha assessment disparities within a single class of prooerty, for while a Queeos bomeowner is essessed on the average of 27.3 percent. of market value, his oeigh-hor may be assessed at as little as 10 percent, or as much as 60 percent, of the amount his home is actually

Proponents' View:

The solution for all theseisparities, according to those backing change, is simply to start complying with state law, which mandates assessments at 100 percent of mar-

They emphasize that a jump for the homeowner from a 27 perceot assessmeot to 100 percent would oot mean a four-fold in-crease in their total taxes.

The Real Estate Board of New York has estimated on the basis of figures from the state equilization board that if the city went to a system of 100 perceot assessments, the real-property tax base would increase by 73 per-cent, while the tax rate would decline hy 42 percent.

THE BOYS FROM BRAZIL By tra Levin. 312 of the cold precision with which Mr.

Thrill time. And In "The Boys From one, certainly his most appallingly inventive plot since "Rosemary's Baby." Half a dozen former SS men gather in e resteurant in São Paulo, Brazil. They are given marching orders by a leader, who turns out to be Dr. Josef Mengele, the so-called "Angel of Death" who performed biological experi-ments on the inmates of Auschwitz. The men are to disperse themselves over Europe and North America. and, following a precise two-year timetable, murder 94 people who have in common (as far as we are told) only thet they are approxi-mately 65 years old, are stable family men, are civit servants of mmor authority, and are either retired or just about to be. At stake, the meo are told, is nothing less than "the hope and the destiny of the Aryan race," the future of the Fourth Reich. Not included on tha list, iocidentally, is old Yakov Liebermann, the Viennese Jew who has already capther than the viennese Jew who has already capther than the viennese Jew who has already capther tured Eichmann and Stangl and is on the lookout for Mengele. Liebermann's exclusion from the list is understandable, coosidering that he has oothing to do with the intended victims; but to the success of Mengele's horrific scheme it proves extremely detrimental.

Something Disgusting

It is extremely clever-the way Mr. Levin first keeps us (and the good guys) groping for the key to what Mengele is up to, and then channels our emotions to other coocerns once we have caught on. So long as we fail to understand what Mengele is about, his plan seems mysteriously terrifying. By the time we do under-stand it and see that it is far too mad to, succeed, the focus of our fear has shifted to the danger involved in stopping bim from trying it. And it isn't until after we've finished reading "The Boys From Brazil" that it dawns on us that the story consists of familiar Ira Levin themesbiological engineering, the rebuth of the devil, burnan automation—only reshuffled into a new permutation.

But there is also something disgusting about the book, and though it absorbed me, I admit, from beginning to end. it also left me feeling guilty for having been intrigued by it. Why is this? Partly because Levio's plot manipulates our emotions. And partly because of the gratuitousness of some of the violence. (For instance Brazil" Ira Levin has come up with a wild . at . one point, a young men orders his guard dogs to kill a man for no other discernible reason than that it suits the mechanics of the plot.) But most of all it was because the story takes certain serious issues—among them pathological anti-Semitism and the problem of how Jews are to go about defending, themselves and manipulates them merely for the pur-pose of entertainment. In short, it is simply oot the time to turn racists into stage villains. It betrays an unhealthy lack of respect for evil.

On the other hand, Robart Calder's "The Dogs" is an effective thriller precisely because there is no evil to lack respect for, no stage villains to blama for the mess that the small New England town of Covington gets into. Everyone is doing his best—the people at the Behavioral Developmeot Institute who are breeding and training German shepherds to bring out their essential dogginess; Toby, the handler who loves dogs so much that he "horrows" one of the institute's pupples, only to have it run away; Alex Bauer, the unhappy English professor who finds the puppy, takes it home with him, and names it Orphan; and Orph himself, who happens to be from a litter manifesting "a certain indifference to humen beings."

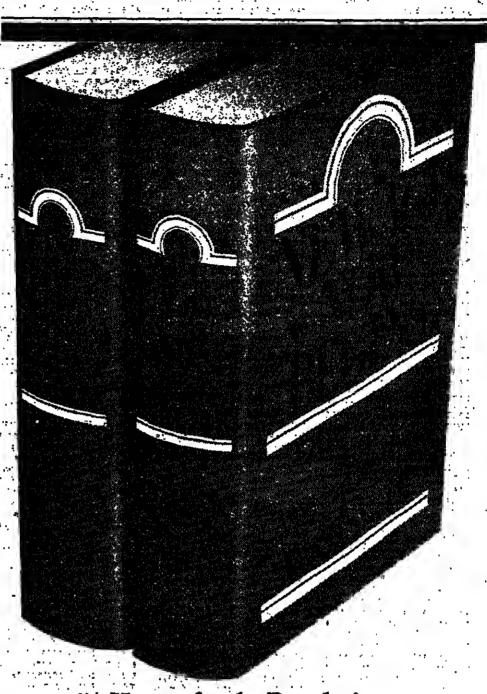

Man's Best Enemy

So no one can really be blamed when Orph hites one of Bauer's children and then takes to the woods to lead a pack of feral strays in a survival struggle that leads to attacks on human beiogs. It is just a matter of human nature colliding with canine nature—tha culminetion of a 10,000-year-old misunderstanding, according to the institute's director, who goes on to explain thet 'Pethood has been disastrous for [the dog]... People view him as little more than a friendly, animated toy. As a direct consequence we have untold oumbers of dogs whose nature is perverted, whose character is confounded. who are denied constructive outlets for impulses which are very powerful, and who live in enormous frustration." . ;

I wish Robert Calder ("the pseudonym of a prolific, award-winning writer and dog authority," says the dust jacket) had dooe a bit more with the bitches and curs who inhabit his buman society, particularly a easty professor named Farrell who is embittered partly because "his little book on Herrick had been panned by his peers." But there are pleoty ecough ironic parallels between the dogs and the humans. Mr. Calder knows canines extremely well and writes about them with eloquent authority. And it is especially to his credit that he has brought this nature-disaster to its climax without resorting to cheap malevolence.

Government Oilmen.

The United States Government is about to embark on a venture into the international oil trade that holds the potential for dramatically altering the economic relations between this country and the oil-producing states.

The opportunity for a Government role in what has traditionally been a domain of the major multinational oil companies comes from the mandate for a strategic oil reserve, one element of national energy policy on which Congress and the Ford Administration found ready accord.

This billion-barrel stockpile, to be accumulated over the coming seven years, is designed to insulate the United States from a boycott auch as occurred in 1973; eventually the reserve could replace imports from the Arab oil lands for as long as one year. Stored in underground salt caverns, oil can be pumped out much faster for current consumption than from a natural oil field.

Authorizing the stockpile in one of the least controversial sections of last year's energy hill, Congress left open how the reserve supplies are to be acquired. There is always the option of filling the storage facilities with domestically produced crude from the naval petroleum reserves; a House-Senate conference finally reached agreement last week on long-pending legislation to authorize full-scale production at Elk Hills, Calif., and two other Federally owned fields.

But such a "Drain America First" policy has obvious drawbacks, and considering the current buyer's market in the world oil trade—ample supplies and excess production capacity—the Federal Energy Administration has decided to start shopping around among foreign oil producers. The goal is direct government-to-government purchase contracts of several years duration, at prices considerably below the going rate for the commercial market. F.E.A. chief Frank Zarb has already opened discussions with Venezuela.

... vs. OPEC

An active Government-buying program could become a powerful instrument for dealing with members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries-ooe that must be used with great subtlety if it is not to backfire. Government orders at market prices would undermine the policy of trying to bring oil prices down; yet too heavy-handed an attempt to undercut the cartel prices might force greater cohesion and suspicion in OPEC.

Balancing that risk, however, the security of long-term purchase orders, coupled with the prospect of United States technological commitment to expand foreign production facilities, might become highly attractive to some of the less-developed producing states which are particularly vulnerable to oil trade whims and cycles.

Prof. Morris A. Adelman of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, long an advocate of a Government oil buying program, proposes a Federal purchasing agency which would control all oil imports. Mr. Adelman believes that a system of sealed bids by individual oilproducing states would be a quick and effective means of splitting up the cartel and bringing prices down.

Whether the present Government huying proposal eventually spills over into the cummercial market or not, the entry of the United States into the world trade, as a Government, opens a wide range of political and economic options for this country's future relations with the OPEC cartel.

Mansfield's Senate

It is too early to bid farewell to Mike Mansfield who is retiring next January as Montana's senior Senator and as Senate majority lesder. Spare, vigorous, alert, he could well serve the Republic as wise counselor and special envoy in various public and private capacities for many years to come.

But it is timely to take note of the way Mr. Mansfield helped to change the Senate during his record-making sixteen-year tenure as majority leader. The Senate would have changed in any event because the greatly enlarged Democratic majority produced by the "class of '58" was too big, too liberal, too venturesome to be controlled by the close-to-the-vest operations of his renowned predecessor, Lyndon B. Johnson. Moreover, the civil rights revolution that Johnson himself initiated as Senate leader caused a steady erosion of the oncedominant conservative Southern Democratic bloc.

Senator Mansfield's contribution was to welcome change and gently burry it along. By treating every member as his equal, by appealing to the better rather than the worse side of each man'a nature, and by keeping everyone informed rather than ignorant of the leadership's goals and tactics, he made the Senate a much more open and more democratic institution. He made consensus a reality rather than a slogan.

If by this civilized style of leadership, Mr. Mansfield contributed to making the Senate somewhat less productive in terms of bills passed and partisan power exercised, the result was fairly close to what the authors of the Constitution had in mind when they conceived of the Senate. They asw it as a place for the sober second thought and for the full articulation of minority as well as majority views. Mr. Mansfield passes to his successor in the leadership post a worthy legacy of institutional self-confidence and mutual trust.

Legal Aid Centennial

"If war is too important to be left to the generals, justice is too important to be left to the lawyers." At the observance of the Legal Aid Society's 100th anniversary, Robert B. McKay, former dean of New York University's law school and the society's current president, used this startling metaphor to arouse the legal profession and the community at large to the urgent need of providing somethiog approximating equal justice for the poor in civil and criminal cases.

The society has proved its value for a century in repre-

The public debate over the future of the City University should not obscure the fact that there is no painless way to save the institution and still stay inside inescapable money limits. The Board of Higher Education has to decide which of a limited number of options will best preserve the city's public higher education.

Chancellor Robert Kibbee's plan moves generally in the right direction. But it would have provoked much less acrimony if more diligent attention had been given to specific details and to explaining that the restructuring proposals are not synonymous with curtailment of educational opportunities.

Contrary to much of the present oratory, the revised rules for admission-which are crucial to all efforts at keeping the university academically viable-need not have the effect of shutting the doors permanently to any applicant. Procedures can readily be devised to let underprepared students remedy their deficiencies before, rather than after, admission to college.

The understandable apprehensions expressed by Puerto Rican spokesmen over the proposal to close Hostos Community College could be diminished, without upsetting the hudget, hy creating a joint Hostos-Bronx Community Coilege on the extremely suitable campus which the latter institution recently acquired from New York University. Such a merger would preserve Hostos's highly successful programs in the allied health fields as well as its model bilingual instruction.

Similarly, an alternative to the elimination of Richmond College, which enrolls only juniors and seniors, would be its merger with Staten Island Community Coilege. This would assure the city's most rapidly growing horough access to the full range of undergraduate education, without the cost of maintaining two separate institutions.

The conversion of Medgar Evers College from a four-year to a two-year institution appears justified on the basis of its present predominant enrollment in the first two undergraduate years. By contrast, contrary to the chancellor's staff report, York Coilege seems to show a far more balanced four-year enrollment. In addition, its mission as a senior college is closely linked to Jamaica's rejuvenation and the successful integration of a large section of Queens.

To submerge the identity of John Jay College of Criminal Justice, another Kibbee proposal, would constitute a serious loss to the city when it is clear that improved law-enforcement and judicial processes are crucial to the urban future. The college's nationally acknowledged leadership in this field argues strongly for its retention as an academic unit, provided its administrators can keep their promise to effect savings in amounts equivalent to the proposed merger with Baruch College.

Eventually the state will have to pay for a larger share of CUNY's cost. But in the interim, it would be an irresponsible act of political evasion not to acknowledge that growing smaller is the institution's only alternative to hecoming a university in name onlydrained of academic strength, purpose and quality.

Fiscal Prod ...

Governor Carey has taken a needed move toward more active intervention in New York City's foundering fiscal affairs with his appointment of Social Services Commissioner Stephen Berger as chief administrator of the state's Emergency Fioancial Control Board.

Damaging as this further state intrusion is to the principle of home rule, the effort that has been made up to now to confine the watchdog agency to a relatively passive role and leave primary responsibility for restoring the city's fiscal balance to elected municipal officials clearly has failed. Mayor Beame has continued to procrastinate on decisions needed to help close a still growing-and not yet fully acknowledged-budget gap.

Greatly increased pressure for fiscal reforms can be expected from the control board under Mr. Berger, who has a reputation as a tough, aggressive administrator. As director of a state commission studying municipal affairs, he was an early warner against the sleazy fiscal policies that helped bring on the current crisis.

... Economic Boost

In concurrently assigning new economic development tasks to the Municipal Assistance Corporation, Governor Carey has recognized a fundamental reality about the city's future. Herbert Elisb, who will continue as executive director of M.A.C., despite his replacement by Mr. Berger in the control board, put the case bluntly: "The life of the city cannot be assured by fiscal plans alone." Although a proliferation of local and state agencies already are addressing the problem of statewide economic decline, the members of the M.A.C. board bring an exceptional range of fresh talent and energy to this crucial task. This is especially true of the chairman, Felix G. Rohatyn, who has performed tirelessly in the battle to save both city and state from fiscal collapse.

Mr. Rohatyn's talents and those of his fellow board members will be put to their severest test io attempting to reverse the flight of jobs and people from New York. They will have to work equally hard to persuade the Federal Government to assume the burden of welfare and other costs now unfairly placed on the city and to enlist regional cooperation for development and for lobbying in Washington. They will need the support of every New Yorker in this vital, multifaceted endeavor.

Letters to the Editor

To Curb Our Under-16 Criminals

I read with keen interest, but not surprise, two articles which appeared in your March 2 edition relating to the juvenile-justice system and the Juvenile-crime problem in New York State. The conditions and statistics presented in these articles have been apparent to me for some time.

I have introduced legislation which would remove fourteen- and fifteenyear-olds who commit the most serious violence-related felonies such as murder, armed robbery, rape, manslaughter and arson, from their automatic juvenile-delinquent status and place them in the criminal-justice

Uoder present law, any person under the age of sixteen is not accountable for his or her criminal behavior. The law provides that a person under sixteen cannot under any circumstances be held criminally responsible for his or her conduct even though such acts, if committed by a sixteen-year-old, would constitute a felony. The indifference youngsters have for our judicial system and the administration of justice is apparent in the criminal conduct of many fourteen- and fifteen-year-olds. Their awareness that punishment, if any. will be short and no criminal record will be made has obviously been responsible for the alarming increase in criminal activities by persons under the age of sixteen. The statistics you present in your articles indicate to me that the time has arrived when persons fourteeo and fifteen years of age must be held accountable when they commit violent crimes of murder, armed robbery,

If convicted, they would be incarcerated with sixteen, seventeen, and eighteen-BURTON G. HECHT year-olds. Member of Assembly, 83d Dist., Bronx Albany, March 3, 1976

Toward Equal Punishment

To the Editor: A main reason for our serious crime problem is our failure to have "equal justice under the law." To aid in remedying this condition, I would suggest a panel of judges whose sole duty and responsibility would be to mete out punishment.

When a person is convicted of a major crime by a jury of his peers, the presiding judge would submit to the panel complete minutes of the trial and only have authority to make suggestions. As it is now, two defendants coovicted of similar crimes may receive vastly different punishment since the judges involved may be of different temperament. My plan may also prevent a presiding judge from being lenient because of political or monetary reasons.

JOHN GREEN Long Beach, L.I., March 2, 1976

As a member of an inveterate letterwriting and globally scattered family, I find Joseph L. Hutner's suggestion of a once-a-week residential mail delivery insupportable [letter Feb. 29]. His views are most surprising, considering his own lucidity and facility with the written language, which would lead one to assume him a proponent of the rebirth of the penmanship so sadly lacking in this age of declining literacy.

The vastness of this couotry, the high mobility rate of many of its inhabitaots and its statistically significant immigrant population all cootribute to the need for ao efficient postal service. The telephone is a welcome and much-appreciated instrument in an emergency, but regular phone calls from Portland to Pittsburgh or Los Angeles to Loodon are ficancially unfeasible for most while the cost of a stamp is still within reach, it would seem worth more than a passing thought that one of our current stock phrases is "lack of communication." Surely such a situation were better remedied than reinforced by the lovoluntary curtailment of even one medium of communication.

The volume of residential mail is "statistically insignificant" compared with what? Mr. Hutner's claim to the amount of unwanted and unsolicited mail foisted oo us all is unquestionable, but if that same junk mail were removed from business deliveries, and also, if it were possible, all the unnecessary first-class busioess mail generated daily, the comparison might be less odious. Maybe the contributors to this page should be considered guilty of needlessly adding to the hurden borne by the Postal Service. Uodoubtedly, the oumber of people reading these ex-changes is "statistically insignificant" compared with something.

Let those in business use the phone, Mr. Hutner; after all it's a tax deduction for them, but doo't penalize those of us who still exercise and eojoy the communication of the written word.

Marianas Facts

To the Editor:

I am writing in response to your Feb. 27 editorial "American Marianas." As the floor manager of the bill which extended commoowealth status to the islands, I feel impelled to correct some of the misconceptions you seem to have of the facts of the situation.

First, the United States has not been extended 3,300 miles further out into the Pacific as a result of the Northern Mariaoas Commonwealth Covenant. Rather, sovereignty has been extended 44 miles oorth of Guam, the southern part of the Marianas, already a U.S. territory. Second, the covensot extended no new welfare or social programs. Uoder commoowealth status the Northern Marianas will most likely be put nn an equal footing with Guam, which now enjoys only about nne-tenth of the Federal programs available in the fifty states. I find it interesting that : your editorial left vague the question of whether The Times opposes equal treatment for the territories with the states.

Third, I am sure that you are aware of the fact that United Natioos General Assembly Resolutions 1514 and 1541 are of a purely advisory nature and should not in any way be confused with international law. Moreover, there are precedeots in the cases of Togoland and the Cameroons for the U.S. position oo the Marianas. Finally, I must admit that I am at a loss to understand your assertions that the granting of commonwealth status for a people who voted 79 percent in favor of such status is expansionism (read neo-imperialism), or that the only islands in the world from which atomic attacks were launched lack strategic value.

India: The Lost Satellite

To the Editor: Wheo India put loto orbit its first scientific setellite-Aryabhatta-there was criticism on your part on what a poor country like India was doing spending mooey and resources on space technology and scientific research of this sort while there were more urgent problems. Now, the United States has decided not to renew the contract under which an American space satellite provides education to 2,400 Indian villages. This shows that a country cannot sit hack, being dependent on another. It must try to atay abreast, io the best way it can, with scientific and technological progress. One hopes India will be able to put into orbit its own communications satellite very soon.

The notions of success and failure arise in the West in the aftermath of the Renaissance and the waning authority of stratified religious cultures.

What a hopeless enterprise! What a wasteful culture thet prizes so highly a success that has no value and struggles so mightily to avoid precisely the failure and nonrecognition that may well be the normal consequence of great discovery, courageous tenacity, and excellent achievements!

Success is only the misunderstandings that flock to celebrate an echievemeot whose meaning and durability has had no test. Failure, likewise, addresses nothing essential; it, too, is often only impatience in the face of a too slowly unraveling critical judgment.

The practical man can speak of success and failure. An enterprise of commerce has a measurable outcome: a scientific experiment succeeds or fails. The man of imagination, however, may change everything and produce no results. He always succeeds and he always fails.

Spring in Washington

By James Reston

WASHINGTON, March 9-The first signs of spring in Washington are the yellow-green willows along the Polomac, the tulip trees in the park behind the Interior Department, and the lovely star megnolia at the northwest gete of the White House. And every time this miracle happens in the spring, reminding us of the renewlog rbythms of life, we get a wintry blast from the north, So it has been this week in Washington: The snow drifted over the Blue Ridge andburied the daffodils;

This is precisely the way it has been in the political world as well. New boys like Jimmy Carter have bloomed in New Hampshire and withered in Massachusetts. Old boys like Scoop Jackson, Mo Udall, and George Wallece have blossomed in Bostoo and wilted elsewhere, but later in the big states of Illinois, New York and California, nature will sort them out,

So, efter the Florida primary, there is a pause. The tests of the peripheral states of the Eastern Seaboard are over, and there is time to think about what the candidates have been saying.

If you have been listening, you might well think, from what some of them have been saying, that the foreign policy of the United States is a disaster-almost as irrationel as our crazy system of picking national party leaders-but the political weather is even more uopredictable than the oaturel weather, so herewith a minority report.

Despite all the complicated and dangerous problems of arms controlin a world now spending over $300 billion a year on weapons-plus all the other internetional issues of Middle Eest strategy, trade, money, energy, etc., it is herd to believe that this election's foreign policy problems are more elarming then they were in the other postwer elections, or that Scoop Jecksoo or Ronald Reagan have the answers to our dilemmas.

Does it mean nothing that in this election, unlike most elections siece Roosevelt's in 1932, the United Stetes is not at war somewhere io the world? There are obviously grave problems all along the Mediterranean littoral. but is it meaningless that there is at least a truce in the Sinei and in Cyprus, and more liberal governments in Portugal and Spain? Europe is wracked by Inflation and unemployment, but the Europeen Community expands, ever so slowly; Chine is oow part of the international community rether then part of the Communist bloc; the two Germanys have compromised their differences over Berlin, once the flash-point of the world; the United States and the Soviet Union are et least talking ebout strategic arms control and expending their trade, admittedly not always to Washington's advantage butthis is scarcely a catalogue of disaster.

What is true is that the foreign policy problems of the last of the 70's are infinitely more complex and subtle, far less obvious than the military and ideological confrontations of the cold war days. They may be equally dangerous, for the conflict of national interests and philosophies about individual freedom and the state are as savage now as ever before, but Messrs Jackson, Reagan and the other critics of the netion's foreign policy are not really dealing with all these diverse questions. They are merely giving us slogans, like the jumping kids at the basketball play-offs. They are shooting about who's "No. I," insisting that detenta should be a "two-way street," which is fair enough but no policy. In short, they are concentrating their attacks on Henry Kissinger, but Kissinger is not really relevant to the future. Regardless of who wins, be will be finished at the end of the alection,

It is odd that Mr. Jackson bas been so superficial. He is a serious and experienced man who has been around here for more than a geoeration, studying and worrying about the problems of foreign and military affairs. He has a good foreign policy staff. beaded by Dorothy Fosdick, e wise and sensitive woman who went through all these postwar foreign policy problems as an adviser to Adlai Steveoson, but unlike Stevenson, who understood the weaknesses and psychological problems of the 50's, Jackson is playing the old-fashioned big-city cold war ethnic politics of the past.

Mr. Reagan is less of a worry. The more ground he has lost with his silly comments about Social Security eod shuffling off $90 billion to the states, the more he has stumbled into foreign. affairs and attacked Mr. Kissinger. who at Richard Nixoo's urging, has been instructing him oo foreign policy for years. Unlike Jacksoo, he is really ignorant about foreign affairs, and bas one other disadvantage, which is thet he is amiably lazy. President Ford. works and struggles and listens, but Mr. Reagan thinks he knows the answers, has a terrible temper, and when the big Issues are being dis-cussed, he is "out to luoch."

So maybe, during half-time after the Florida primary, we should think about . these characters, or more important, about Americe's position in the world. Jackson and Reagan are right to raise the foreign policy question, for there are serious end dangerous problems to be solved, but they are not coming up with any answers or even suggestions. They are merely playing party games, end leaving us, like the snows in Washington, to wooder what

THE NEW YORK TIMES, WEDNESDAY, MARCH 10, 1976 Reaching men is easy when you know you! AN BIGS

The surest way to determine how a magazine is really doing is to look at its circulation figures. They are the blocks on which all audience claims are built. The most reliable figures are those filed with the Audit Bureau of Circulations. Once audited, they provide a true, uncolored picture of a publication's vitality.

PLAYBOY'S ABC Statement for the last six months of 1975 shows an average circulation of 5,700,000 copies per issue. That's a healthy figure by any standard and far and away the largest in the men's magazine field. To get an idea of just how large it is, compare it with the statements of other magazines competing for the male market:

The university city of Marburg showed a sense of somewhat wounded pride while the exhibition was on display here. In an explanatory brochure, it pointed out: "The Cuban mercenaries in Angola, described as 'new Hessians,' show that the Hessians of the War of Independence in the USA have not been forgotten."

Most of the Hessian soldiers were not professionals, but farmera sons, drafted recruiters with hard hearts. The Hessians fought not out of loyalty to the British crown, but because German princes in Cassel. President Ford defeated Ronald Reagan in Florida's Republican Presidential primary, achieving his fourth victory in as many races. The hard-fought Democratic primary was won by Jimmy Carter, former Governor of Georgia. Gov. George C. Wallace of neighboring Alabama finished second in a major setback. Senator Henry M. Jackson of Washington ran third, well behind Mr. Wallace. The President's victory seriously damaged the candidacy of the former California Governor. [1:8.]

Speaking in the House, Representative Otis G. Pike accused the Central Intelligence Agency of seeking to discredit him and Congress in an effort to gloss over findings of the House Select Committee on Intelligence. which he heads. The Suffolk County Democrat related previously undisclosed incidents in his dealings with the agency. One was a telephone conversation in which he quoted Mirchell Rogovin, the agency's special counsel, as having said: "Pike will pay for this we'll destroy him for this." [1:2-3.] In the continuing Washington dispute over "leaks," the State Department said that Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and his top aide, Lawrence S: Eagleburger, were personally conducting an inquiry into disclosure of top-secret details of talks with Middle East leaders. [10:1-4.]

A former intelligence official said that the Federal Bureau of lovestigation may have been "penetrated" by bostile foreign intelligence at least three times since the end of . World War II. The evidence, which in-volved F.B.L ageots in New York City, Washington and an undisclosed American city, was entirely circumstantial, the former official said, and no criminal charges were brought against the three agents be-lieved to have been subverted by foreign governments, [1:2-3.]

Under a proposed clause that would raise benefits by 3 percent a year to compensate for inflation, employees after age 73 who had retired at age 65 would begin to get higher benefits than in current plans. [1:4.]

Republican and Democratic leaders in the Legislature have agreed informally to seek the restoration of $110 million in school aid cuts in Governor Carey's proposed budget and to make deeper cuts than he had sought in state programs. [55:6-8.]

A mayoral task force has found "incompetence" and "an atmosphere of mistrust" at the highest levels of management of New York City's $128 million day-care program. In releasing the report, First Deputy Mayor John E. Zuccotti said that up to 16,000 of the 35,200 children enrolled in 410 centers financed by the city, state and Federal governments might be ineligible. [1:6-7.]

About 450,000 daily riders of Transport of New Jersey buses used other ways to get to work as a strike against the major carrier began. Other bus operators and railroads reported no problems in accommodating commuters. [1:5.]

The Museum of Modern Art has acquired a huge "cutout" work by Henri Matisse, snl will exchange objects from its collection equal to the purchase price, which was said to be about $1 million. The many-paneled work, measuring nearly 54 feet long and 71/2 feet high, once covered the four dining room walls of the home of the modern French master. [1:1-4.]

Poughkeepsie Teacher Indicted

A Dutchess County grand jury indicted Raymond Jackman, a 25-year-old Poughkeepsie schoolteacher, on assault, unlawful imprisonment and conspiracy charges growing out of his alleged attack on a 17-year-old youth he suspected of stealing photographic equipment from his apartment. A second man, Edwin Hellstrom, 26, also of Poughkeepsie, was indicted on the same charges. The unnamed victim was allegedly lured to Mr. Jackman's apartment on Feb. 26, tied to a chair, punched and burned with a cigarette by the two men and another 17-year-old who reportedly pleaded guilty to attempted assault after being granted youthful offender status.

Alexander Bell Stamp Is Upheld

'A Federal judge rejected a move to bar the Postal Service from issuing a commemorative stamp to honor Alexander Graham Bell as the inventor of the telephone. The Italian Historical Society had sought a preliminary injunction against the stamp, contending that the telephone's real inventor was Antonio Meucci, an Italian immigrant. Judge Lawrence W. Pierce, in a decision in Federal District Court bere, questioned whether the society had presented a legal claim and said the laws "place no obligations on the Postal Service with regard to commemorative stamps."

Bronx Landlord Guilty of Arson

A 45-year-old Bronx landlord was convicted of trying to burn down an apartment house he owned at 887 Faile Street after the city's Parking Vinlation Bureau placed a $5,000 lien against the huilding. The defendant, Herbert Sibblies, was found guilty of arson after a trial in State Supreme Court in the Bronx. District Attorney Mario Merola said Mr. Sibblies set tha fire on Aug. 13, 1975. The defendant, who authorities said had hoped to collect on a $25,000 fire insurance policy, faces up to 15 years in

Former Administrator Must Testify

Justice Leonard H. Sandler of State Supreme Court directed Thomas L. Fitzgerald, Manhattan's former public administrator, to appear before a special grand jury investigating corruption cases in the Surrogate and other Manhattan courts. In sustaining a subpoena issued by a special grand jury hearing corruption cases brought by Maurice H. Nadjari, the special state prosecutor, Justice Sandler rejected Mr. Fitzgerald's arguments that the prosecutor lacked authority to conduct the inquiry.

Denver Depends on Sun to Clear Snow From Streets

By GRACE LICHTENSTEIN Special to The New York Times DENVER, March 9-Cheer

up, Queens. If you think your streets are clogged for days after a snowstorm, there may be some comfort in knowing that Denver, gateway to the snow-covered Rocky Mountains, is even worse.

Last week, after a generally mild winter, Denver experienced one of its periodic severe storms. In three days about eight inches of snow fell on the city, which, with its 116.4 square miles, is almost exactly the same size as Queens. The storm left cars stalled on major thoroughfares, side streets impassable and the airport parking lot looking like a bumping-car ride in Coney Island.

However, Denverites, with their slower pace of life, simply shrug off the prob-lem. "It melts pretty fast," said Rex Jennings, president of the city's Chamber of Commerce. Most business- safe for cars. Then trucks men, be said, feel that the city does a good job of snow removal.

Even though Denver gets an average of 60.1 inches of snow a year compared with 8.6 for Queens, Colorado'a capital city bas a fraction of the snow removal equipment that New York City's geo-graphically largest borough

According to Jose Costello, director of administration for the city, Denver has 45 salt and sand spreaders, 41 snow plows and two snowblowers. Queens has 101 salt spreaders, 522 snowplows and 10 snowblowers, according to the Department of Sanitation. Counting other types of snow equipment, Denver has a total of 132 vehicles,

Queens, 678. Asked bow Denver hauls away the snow, Mr. Costello replied, "We never do." Instead, the sait and sand spreaders first go through the streets to make them with blades on them sweep the snow toward the center or curb of a street, Later, snow blowers come along and gobble up some of the piles.

Queens, of course, was Mayor John V. Lindsay's snowy Waterloo in February 1969, when a blizzard left the borough incapacitated for several days. That's not likely to happen in Denver, even with its limited equipment. Moderating temperatures almost always return quickly after a storm here. The snow does disappear quickly.

Another reason Denver may get away with so little equipment is that fewer people have to slog their way through the slushy streets. The city has a population of only 500,000. The entire Denver metropolitan area has 1.5

When Cooked With Elan, Hamburgers Have Eclat

By CRAIG CLAJBORNE

There is a moment in Noël Coward's play "Private ... Lives" in which a divorced couple meet by chance on a terrace in the south of France. It is a moment charged with old-fashioned sentiment, heightened abruptly by the sound of a plano off-stage playing "Someday I'll Find You." Amanda, the lady in the case, remarks, "Extraordinary bow potent cheap music is."

That's the way wa feel about hamburgers, if you happen to think that hamburgers are trashy and banal, if not to say vulgar, to use the word in the sense of a popular. To put it one way, we infinitely prefer a well-made hamburger to an overcooked filet mignon or an ill-seasoned porterhouse.

Although the name is of German extraction, a ham-burger is as quintessentially American as pasta is Italian or paprika dishes Hungarian. It would seem, after a considerable amount of random research that has spanned a couple of decades, that there is no concretely docu-mented evidence of the precise moment the first ham-burger came into evidence. burger came into evidence.

Evan Jones, in his recently published "American Food" (E. P. Dution & Company, $19.95), offers a most reasoncable explanation for the nama. The patty itself was originally "a 19th-century import from Germany, a meat dish of chopped beef" first known in this country "as a Hamburg steak after the port on the Elbe River." Rombauer-Becker's well-known "Joy of Cooking" (Bobbs-Merrill, $10) reprints the legend most commonly accepted as to the hamburger's origin. It was, the book notes, at "the St. Louis World's Fair in 1904 that broiled. Dunned beef was introduced to the rest off the world by the Germans of South St. Louis."

It is not the patty itself that makes the hamburger so typically American. It is, rather, tha patty-cum-bun or sandwich factor that puts it in league with apple pie (only more so; it has been estimated that Americans annually consume more than 40 billion bamburgers a year and if there is any other dish that exceeds that figure, we'll eat those words).

Ground meat in various shapes, patties and otherwise, has occurred in the world's cuisines years, perhaps centuries, before the St. Louis exposition. There are polpette di carne of Italy; the frikadeller of Sweden; the boulettes de viande of France; the albondigas of Mexico and the koftas of India, to offer a brief sample of cooked, shaped ground-meat dishes. But a broiled or grilled meat patty in a bun, which you can march around with, smacks of "The Stars and Stripes Forever."

We have long held a theory that the simplest disbes in the world are frequently the most difficult to cook. It is, in truth, we feel, more difficult to scramble an egg than make a good souffle; it is far more difficult to make a succulent and splendid roast chicken than a platter of coq au vio. The same is true of hamburgers. It takes talent to turn out a hamburger with class.

We offer here an assortment of hamburgers that have pleased us recently in our home kitchen. There is a basic and elegant hamburger on toast with butter and parsley plus a few "gimmick burgers," If you wish to call them that—a pizza burger with mozzarella cheese and tomato sauce, a Swiss burger with a genuine fondue. a Mexican burger with a spicy chili sauce and so on.

If these be gimmlcks, we've tried to make the best

The hamburger is as quintessentially American as pasta is Italian or paprika dishes Hungarian.

Shape ground beef, preferably round steak or sirioin (the ground tail of porterhouse or T-bone makes excellent hamburgers) into round flat pattles.

There are two recommended methods for cooking hamburgers in a skillet. In the first, sprinkle a light layer of salt in the bottom of a heavy skillet such as a black iron skillet. Heat the skillet thoroughly and add the hamburgers. If the heat is hot enough under the skillet, it will not be necessary to add any fat when seared on one side, usa a pancake turner and with a quick motion, scoop under the hamburgers, turning them in the skillet. Reduce the heat and continue cooking the hamburgers to the desired degree of doneness. Add a in the skillet. Reduce the heat and continue cooking the hamburgers to the desired degree of doneness. Add a touch of butter, salt and pepper to taste.

The more conventional method of skillet cookery is to melt for each hamburger about half a teaspoon of butter in a heavy skillet and when it is hot but not browning, add the hamburger or hamburgers. Cook until browned on one side, turn and continue cooking to the desired degree of doneness. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and serve with the pan juices.

The preferred method for cooking bamburgers us on a grill fired with charcoal or gas-fired coals. The grill should be very hot when the hamburgers are added. Cook until nicely grilled on one side, turn and cook to the desired degree of doneness. Add a touch of butter, salt and pepper to taste.

The March Lion Roars—9 Days Late

By ANGELA TAYLOR

Furs are getting as common around town as good Republican cloth coats. Women are wearing them even when the sun shines. Given yesterday's cold wave and snow, all the little minks and sables and even a couple of rabbits came trotting out.

There's something to be said for the wind-chill factor. It gives women a chance to wear expensive furs without feeling ostentatious.

"I was told not to bring any warm clothes,"

"I was told not to bring any warm clothes," said Sue Gale, a visitor from Los Angeles, whose furry red fox coat was quickly getting frosted with snow. "They said New York was having spring—and look at this."

Despite tight money and high prices, a cold day brings out more fur-clad women than have been seen in years. A surprising number of sables (a sable coat costs upward of $20,000 these days) flit in and out of Tiffany's and Bonwit's. Deep, dark minks are so numerous that they seem to be a uniform. that they seem to be a uniform.

The artsy-craftsy crowd of both sexes, sporting their thrift shop oumbers over jeans, find them necessary in drafty lofts. And for the young and fashionable, looking ethnic is very much the thing, and it's easy to look like a character out of Dostoyevsky if you pile on a fur coat over boots and bury your head in a fur hat or a babushka. Nobody hoggles at a man in a fur coat anymore. Michael Lebeck, his hands deep in the pockets of a raccoon coat, said: "I'm having it altered tomorrow. It's too tight. A coat like this should be loose and straight."

this should be loose and straight."

Out-of-towners like Mrs. Gale are usually suspicious of New York weather, and play it safe by traveling in their furs. Elizabeth Hayes, a law student from Washington, wore her long. Christmas-present rabbit for shopping. Barbara Molotsky, in from Chicago for a business meeting, was wrapped up in a fisher-dyed raccoon. Suzanne Kelly, also from the Midwest, wore her lynx, while Annie Roseofeld of France pushed a baby stroller into Bonwit's, wearing an unusual red fox coat worked in chevrons.

Ranch mink is still the star fur. If it's not oew and too short, it's worn with pants. The woman who's getting snobhish about the everywhereness of mink is reaching for the long hairs, even though they make her look fatter. Fisher, a sportier look-alike of sable, is the connoisseur's fur. Tawny unplucked nutria seems to be the seasoo's sleeper. Foxes and lynxes, which are topping mink in price, are the prosperous woman's second fur.

Another side of the fur picture is the reverse Another side of the fur picture is the reverse snobbism of having a somewhat ratty fur, blanket-sized. Pieced furs, seemingly patched together willy-milly, make ponchos for young women and ankie-length coats for men. Judy Friedman, a student, said of her rusty, broadshouldered mink: "It's been in my family forever. Everybody's worn it at one time or another."

appetizer specials We're tickled green we live in the greatest Irish city in the world.

From George M. Cohan to George Carlin, Eugene O' Neill to Ed Sullivan, John Mc Cormack to Jimmy Breslin to Eileen Farrell to Cardinal Cooke... there's scarcely a facet of New York life that hasn't been touched ...and enriched by the scores of Irish immigrants and their descendents who have made New York their home. It's the "luck of the New Yorker" that today our Irish population outnumbers even that of Dublin's fair city. What better day to celebrate our good fortune than March 17th? Ethnic Delights Are Hid On Supermarket Shel

By MIMI SHERATON Si es Goya tiene que ser bueno-if it's Goya it has to be good is a phrase that's music to the ears of the Spanish-speaking com-muoity here, and one that will soon become familiar to those outside that community who, so far, have oever heard it. Yet each year more and more shelves of the city's supermarkets are given over to the beans and rice, spices and packaged dessert mixes, fruit nectars, oils and olives and packaged by this 35-year-old Puerto Rican com-

Operating in the continen-tal United States for the last 20 years, Goya's success has been the envy of its competi-tors, lospiring the formerly Italian - orieoted Progresso Italian - oriented Progresso company to start canning beans preferred by the Hispanic community and labeling them in Spanish as well. Much to the delight of the Unanue family, which owns Goya, the company's volume has soared from $6 million in 1965 to an estimated $60 million in the current year million in the current year in the United States, plus $20, million more io Puerto Rico.

"That estimate Is a little generous," said Joseph Uo-anue, who heads the United States branch "We doo't like to give out exact figures, but I will say that within that time we have increased our production facilities 40

Settled now in spaclous new offices and warehouse in Secaucus, N.J., Mr. Unanue explained some of the veriations in market preferences he must deal with.

"Cubans buy our black beans and our long-grain rice," he said. "Puerto Ricansdon't buy black beans and they want medium-grain rice. Mexicans like our pink beans but oothing else; our food isn't spicy enough for them. Caribbeans buy all kinds of beans and hot sauces, and the rest of our market is made up of Spaniards and Portuguese. Soon we will begin advertising our Cuban-style black bean soup to Americans "

Because ethnic foods are segregated on supermarket shelves, mainly for the convenience of their primary market, they are often by-passed by those outside that group. And all too often food buffs who will go to any remote corner of the city (if not the world) in the. search of something unusual or delicious, often are una-ware of worthy offerings in more obvious locations that are close to home.

Such, one suspects, has been the case with too many been the case with too many of the Goya products, for while the prepared soups, stews and desserts might be too esoterically ethnic for wide taste appeal, the simple, raw materials are not, as a recent tasting of many of the products revealed.

The mainstay of the line is beans in a rainbow of colors — black, red, pink, marbled, green, white, yellow and more. All are available dried and most can be had stewed in a light cooked and canned as well: seasoned with comparing canned varieties to other brands on the ahelves. Goya's beans seemed a bit smaller in seasoned with office oil, barn, and a hint of which beans were broth light, it io color and far more flavor-ful, a result due perhaps to their slightly larger amount of salt.

The loog-grain Canilla rice cooked to snowy, firm and separate grains, and a con-diment salad of tiny greeo olives, delicate pimentoes and large, immaculate capers was easily as good as many similar products sold in fancy gourmet food depart-

Moving Cost Here Hard to Establish

As the warm weather approaches, the pace of people moving, also begins to accelerate. Since moving is in the main an occasional experience for most people, few have any specific ootioos about what the process will cost, or how to go about the cormal cocsumer process of shopping around. But shopping around is essectial, because these days being moved by a moving company is expensive. Since 1971, the rates charged by the vast majority of moving companies in New York State, for moves within the state, have increased on the average by almost 50 erceot. (Rates for interstate noves are governed by the oterstate Commerce Comfaission and are computed differently.) In fact, the State Transportation Department, hich liceoses New York

movers, recently approved hourly rate increases of up to 6.2 percent for 17 movers in New York City, Long Is-land and Westchester and other dowostate

Joseph Traina, general manager of the New York Movers Tariff Bureau, an or-ganization of 400 movers that files for rate increases on their behalf, said in an ioterview that the bureau planned to apply sooo for another rate increase that would cover all 400 compa-

The members of this tariff Thureau, however, do oot all tharge the same prices. (About 150 to 200 licensed hiovers are not bureau mem-bers and their rates, also too file with the state, may differ also.) The bourly rates et present for a van and three workers (agaio, only for moves within the state) vary from about $30 to $44.50 for bureau members. Which companies charge which prices, however, is not easy to find out.

No Rate Booklets

The Department of Transportation does not print any kind of coosumer booklet showing the rates. Telephone calls to moving companies picked, perhaps, from the Xellow Pages, is one way of obtaining hourly rate information. But knowing the hourly rate iso't the whole story, anyway.

One moving company that might charge a higher hourly rate could conceivably get a specific job done faster than a company charging a fower rate, which would might be lower. Most movers will give estimates, but there is one big problem; a Trans-portation Department regulaion forbids estimates that

That rule, and the general chature of the regulation of movers in New York State, disturbs Stephen Kramer, a New York City assistant corporation counsel who has been representing the city in opposing rate increases for movers over the last sev-

"I think that the rule forbidding firm prices should be abolished, and that the state, in fact, sbould get out of tha business of regulating movers' prices," be said.

"These kinds of regulations keep prices up. It's a classic case of a oeed for deregulation, because the lack of competition in the industry competition io the industry kas caused moving costs to ekyrocket. Because of these prices, people in New York City have increasingly turned to hiring trucks and moving themselves or to unlicensed inovers."

Mr. Traina insisted that the moving industry was competitive, and that "chaos would follow" deregulatioo.

He said further that rate deregulation would destroy large, old unionized moving companies, which would be at a disadvantage against companies employing nonucompanies employing nonu-nionzed workers. Mr. Traina also said he opposed allowing firm estimates because then a mover would not be bound by its hourly rates, and that would amount to price deregulation. For people planeing to move, however, the difficulties of shopping around when firm estimates are forbidden is real, Mr. Kramer said he could offer oo way out of the problem, but offered this piece of advice: Never use any mover, licensed or unlicensed, whose quality of work has not been verified through the experience of a friend, relative, or, perhaps, several people given as references by tha moving com-

Lower Speeds Pose ...

A New Hazard

The oationwide reduction of speed limits to 55 miles an hour, which authorities agree has lowered the overall death and injury toll from vehicular accidents, has also epparently intensified the likelihood of one specific kind of accideot.

According to the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety, a nonprofit organizatioo supported by the insurance industry, statistics indicate that more cars are being struck in the rear by tractortrailer trucks as a result of the reduced speed limits. In-stitute officials link this to the loability of tractor-trailer trucks to stop as fast as Old speed-limit laws generally allowed cars to go about 10 miles an hour faster than trucks, which in the event of a sudden slowdown in traffic, offset the unequal stopping distances.

Current National Highway

Traffic Safety Administration rules give a truck 293 feet in which to stop from 60 miles an hour, while cars must be able stop from the same speed within 200 feet. After setting a standard for trucks at that speed of 258 feet, the administration recently extended the distance again as a result of com-plaints that better front-end brakes were causing handling problems. Consumer advocates opposed that exten-

Since 1972, a commissioo rule has required permanently affixed care labels specifying proper washing or dry-cleaning procedures in most wearing apparel. The com-mission has received more than 9,000 comments on that rule; mostly from coosumers, and 85 percent of those people favored extending the rule to household furnishings like curtains and carpets.

A large oumber of people also reported to the commis-sion that labels were not being furnished to them with piece goods, cloth to be sewn garments. As a result, commission's new proposal specifies that cloth manufacturers must supply fabric retailers with the labels.

a Suburb, Handcrafted Items Are Brought out of Shadows

It is not unusual to find some contemporary bandcrafted pieces, tucked away in a department store gallery, amid the lithographs and marked-down Eskimo sculpture. But it is unusual, at least in this part of the country, to discover a first-rate show in a highly visible, if cramped, setting on the main floor of a store.

In White Plains, however, that's just what one finds at the Saks Fifth Avenue there, in a space between the designer boutique and the shoe salon, where or-dinarily plaster mannequins stand demurely displaying

The idea, said Anthony Aquino, the branch's assistant general manager, was to "let people know that we're reaching out into the artists are from the area] and get them interested in coming ioto the store; we thought the show would be good for business."

Well, there's nothing like a little enlightened self-inter-est to benefit the next fellow. The artists who were there for the opening last week were virtually unanimous in their opinion that this kind of exposure couldn't hurt and might certainly help.

The show, said each artisan who was interviewed, might well serve as ao iotroduction to fine crafts for people who have never ventured into a gallery. The word "educa-tion" was used by every one

"A lot of people do have a funny conception of what crafts are," said Ellen Berger. who coordinated the show for Saks with Karyl Gottlieb. "They think it's mugs they saw in a flea market. People have been coming in and they're astonished. They've never seen anything like

Inducing Labor in Childbirth: 'Pernicious Practice' or Safe and Convenient Benefi

Should the hirth of a haby be scheduled around the doctor's—or the mother's—vacation? Should it be planned not to conflict with the doctor's office hours? Should the mother have labor artificially induced simply because she it ired of being pregnant?

Bringing on labor for nonmedical reasons—so-called elective induction— has long been a controversial practice in the United States. While some docthe officer states will state the say labor should never be induced sofely for the convenience of the physician or the mother, others say there are decided advantages in a "programmed" labor and delivery.

Dr. Ralph Gause, for example, has sald that "elective inductions should never be performed unless tha woman is living in a lighthouse in the middle of the ocean." Dr. Gause, former head of obstetrics at Roosevelt Hospital here and former director of research at the National Foundation-March of Dimes, considers the risks of induction too great to justify excapt in extreme situa-

Medical Journal Comments

In November 1974 the editors of Tha Lancet, the noted British medical journal, asserted: "Induction on the grounds of social convenience is a pernicious practice which has no place in modern obstetric care. The mother's holiday, the calls of the obstetrician's private practice, must not influence, for the sake of even a few days, an event which for the child may affect the outcome of its entire life."

Others say, however, that when the patient is carefully selected and the proper safeguards are observed, induction for convenience presents no greater hazard than a normal spontaneous

Tha possible harmful effects of induction have been found to include toa premature baby.

4Possibly e greater chance for the need of caesarian section.

Despite the old controversy over its safety, elective induction of labor has remained popular, particularly among middle-income and upper-income Americal can women. In recent years, though, its popularity has begun to decline as doctors have become more aware of possible hazards to the child.

Currently, it is estimated that on the average 10 percent of births in this country are electively induced. In some hospitals, a third or more of privata obstetrical patients have their belies delivered "by encounternt" babies delivered "by appointment."

In most cases the birth is induced by injecting a hormone drug called Pitocin (oxytocin), commonly called "Pit," into the bloodstream of the woman to stimnlate the uterus to contract. Sometimes induction is dona by tearing the mem-brane that surrounds the fetus, a procdure called amniotomy. And sometimes, both amniotomy and oxytocin are used.

Facts Not Well Known

Unfortunately, says Dr. Louis Hellman, an internationally known obstetrician who is in charge of population affairs at the United States Department of Health, Education and Welfare, few women are given all the facts before they decide. While the advantages of inducing labor are usually clearly stat-ed, he said, the disadvantages are often treated lightly or not considered at

Advocates and opponents agree there can be decided advantages to a sched-uled labor and delivery. The potential benefits of elective induction include the following:

However, some experts who shun induction insist that no test is perfect and that no doctor can tell in all cases whether the baby is really ready duties, so his attention is not divided.

The debate is not over whether there are advantages to elective induction, hut rather whether these advantages justify the risks. The potential hazards primarily surround the timing of induc-tion and the intensity of oxytocin-induced contractions.

Dr. Hellman said several extensive studies had indicated that a slightly higher rate of infant mortality followed induced hirths.

If there is a mistake about the length of the pregnancy, induction could lead to the delivery of a premature haby, whose survival or well-being may be eopardized. Dr. Gause estimated that 10 percent of premature births resulted from planned deliveries following elec-tiva induction of labor and electiva caesarian section.

Each contraction, whether induced or spontaneous, temporarily reduces that exchange of blood between mother and fetus, meaning that less oxygen reaches the baby. Between contractions, the maternal-fetal blood exchange and the fetal oxygen supply are restored.

According to Dr. Karlis Adamsons, bstetrician and neonatologist (specialist in newborn) at Mount Sinai School of Medicine, when contractions are too strong and long and the time between them is too short, the fetus "gets caught in the surf" and does not bave time to recover its oxygen supply, with the possible result of brain damege or sud-

One study of Induced labor at Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center found "a disquieting number of depressed infants"-those with poor color, breathing pattern and muscle tone—among 1,000 indoced births compared to the same number of spontaneous deliveries. Depressed babies were twice as common among the induced births.

A study in a Scottish hospital of 658 consecutive births in 1970 showed that when oxytocin was used either to induce or speed up labor, the baby was two to three times more likely to have difficulties before birth and three to four times more likely to be depressed after birth.

But a smailer study in Glasgow last year showed no great difference be-tween the babies born after induction and those delivered after spontaneous labor, although the induced babies were somewhat more likely to be jaundiced after birth.

A further effect of the strong, fast labor that may be associated with induction is that the mother is more likely to need pain-relieving drugs, all of which cross the placenta and may depress the breathing of the baby at light the strong transfer the risk to birth, as well as increase the risk to the mother.
Dr. Hellman said induction might also involve risk to the mother. If proper labor does not start soon enough after induction, the haby may have to be delivered by caesarlan section. There is also a remote—very remote—possibility of rupture of the uterus," be added.

To minimize the risks of induction. many obstetricians insist that certain conditions be satisfied. As outlined by Dr. Sheldon Cherry, an obstetrician at Mount Sinai Hospital, these requirements are as follows: The woman has already bad at least one normal, noninduced vaginal delivery of a healthy full-term hahy. 4She is at term and her cervix has

LONDON, March 9 - A study, sparked by the disclosure that many mothers had had their labor induced so that hospitals could reduce their staffs during tha Christmas holidays, has been issued that declines to condemn the practice, although its findings are clearly negative.

The lengthy report, which was prepared for Britain's Department of Health and Security, has led to a wide

"It aroused Interest and we felt we needed to have a policy on Induced labor," explained Shella Kitzinger, a social anthropologist who wrote tha report for Britain's prestigious National Child-birth Trust, whose teachers conduct childbirth - prepara-tion classes throughout the country.

Teaching 16 Years

Mrs. Kitzinger, who has been teaching childbirth techniques for 16 years, compiled the data from reports by women who had attended National Childbirth Trust National Childbirth Trust classes. A total of 614 reports of drug-induced lahor were compared with reports made hy a control group women from the same classes whose births were not induced. The most important find-ing, in Mrs. Kitzinger's view, was that most of the women whose labor had been in-duced had little or no choice in the matter. 'They were simply told they would be induced and were expected to comply." Mrs. Kitzinger said "Very often women fit into a sick role simply because it is expected of them, although they are not really patients at all."

Many women in the study did not even know why child-birth was being induced, but felt they would risk the doctor's displeasure hy asking too many questions.

Some were given an explanation only during an examination following child-

One woman told of her plight when the doctor said that her labor would be induced. 'He didn't give any reason. Being minus my tights and pants, I didn't feel I was in the best debating position, and meekly ac-cepted my lot."

Mrs. Kitzinger said, "some doctors prefer an authoritarian relationship with a patient who asks few questions. They feel that their professional responsibility is almost eroded when the pa-tient has ideas of her own."

A second significant find-ing, according to Mrs. Kitzinger, was of a much greater incidence of pain experienced by women whose labor was induced. Even women who had bad children before described birth hy induced labor as mora painful than earlier births, although sec-ond and third hirths are generally thought of as easier.

'The whole labor was distressing and unpleasant," wrote one woman. "The contractions were fierce. There was no buildup to them, They Quite soon tha contractions were one on top of tha other. Life suddenly became too much

Use of Drugs Cited

In fact the pain was so severe for those whose labor was induced that only 8 percent managed to get through their labor without pain-relieving drugs, the report said. But 50 percent of the group whose labor had not been induced got along without drugs.

"This suggests that women who were induced had much greater pain," Mrs. Itzinger

Greater psin is just one of several factors that Mrs. Kitzinger sees as militatiog against a decision to induce births. The study found what it called a dangerous train of events to be associated of events to be associated with induction.

It found the frequency of greater pain and shorter and sbarper labor seems related to a high use of snesthesia, particularly epidural anesthesia, which numbs the lower half of the hody, making delivery by forceps more likely.

"Such a woman cannot push her baby out efficiently because she feels little or no urge to push," Mrs. Kitz-

'You cannot do a forceps delivery without an episiotomy [vsginal surgery], and that requires stitches which cause discomfort. Some of the long-term effects of an episiotomy can be quite severe and can drastically affect a woman's sex life. In a way the procedure turns every hirth into major surgery."

Mrs. Kitzinger said that even after hirth, the chain of undesirable events continues, because in many hospitals habies delivered by forceps are taken from their mothers and go immediately into intensive care.

Wedded Bliss Sans Wedding

BRUSSELS, Belgium, March 9 (AP)—A Common Mar-ket report says that a survey has indicated that the happiest people in Western Europe are those living together without being married.

In a 215-page study entitled "European Men and Women," 9,543 persons were interviewed on the attitudes of men and women toward problems facing society.

One question asked was: "Taking all things together, how would you say things are these days? Would you say you're very happy, pretty happy or not too happy?"
The largest percentage describing themselves as very happy, 23 percent, were people "living as married." Of those who listed themselves as married, only 17 perceot were very happy, as were 13 percent of the singles, 11 percent of the widowed and 2 percent of the separated. Denmark, with its often gray and blustery weather, was the happiest country, and suony Italy the unhappiest. The other countries of the Common Market, the popular name for the European Economic Community, are Britaio. France, West Germany, the Netherlands, Beigium, Luxembourg and Ireland. The Happiness Question

The happiness question was the only one that made a distinction between married couples and those uo-married but living together. Other questions in the sur-vey combined them.

Jacques-René Rabier, the public opinion counselor of the Common Market, cautioned that the findings as to the happiness of unmarried couples living together was the happiness of unmarried couples living together was subject to challeoge on two points: First, he said, the number of such couples who acknowledged that they were living together was small and, secood, there was no way of determining whether couples who described themselves as married were telling the truth.

Today, many doctors recommend a maximum cholesterol intake of only 300 mg. daily. Yet one average egg has 240 mg. of cholesterol! Just two eggs and you're way over the recommended daily limit. That's why you should enjoy Egg Beaters, Fleischmann's fresh-frozen, cholesterol-free egg substitute. Egg Beaters has the good taste of eggs, but no cholesterol. Look for it in your grocer's freezer. Then enjoy Egg Beaters scrambled, in omelets, in cakes,

Fleischmanns is the only leading margarine made from 100%

com oil. High in polyunsaturates, it's low in saturated fat, with no cholesterol. And 100% com oil means light, delicious taste. Another fact: in a recent survey, of those doctors who recommend a polyunsaturated margarine to their patients, twice as many recommend and personally use Fleischmann's as any other brand. Enjoy Fleischmann's in a total dietary program that includes reduced fats, more fruits and vegetables and skim milk.

Lonely Hearts of France: It May Pay to Advertise

Americans are not surprised if the French die or kill for love, but we don't expect them to be without love-not for very long anyway.

We just don't eovision a Jean-Plerre being sad and alone at parties, or a Marie-Noellie sitting home in froot of the television set for an evening, waiting for the phone to ring, or going to the movies on Saturday nights with the girls. Nor would we imagine ever that monelur Nor would we imagine ever that monsieur or madame might resort to a lonely-hearts club, consult a marriage bureau or put an ad in a magazine to find companionship of the opposite sex.

. After all, the French are expert in these matters, aren't they?

these matters, aren't they?

But a recent Issue of Le Nouvel Observateur, a Icfilsb, intellectually oriented weekly, carries six columns of cries of looeliness. Ten agencies advertise their clients' assets and a variety of clubs promise the lonely an immediate social whirl.

The Club Joie de Vivre in Grenoble, for instance, exhorts "the lonely ones of all regions" to come to it "to develop relationships leading to marriage."

The Meetings Without Frontlers agency

The Meetings Without Frontiers agency in Paris says that it will "enable you to meet the person you are looking for and with whom you have every chance of getting along, to share a limited experience (go to the movies, or dance or do handcrafts) or to share all your expe-do nandcrarts) or to share all your experiences."

Elys-Club International in Paris says
It is the place to turn to "if you are looking for someone (in your city or elsewhere) to share your life or simply your distractions."

So the agencies stand ready to help.

And some of the lonely people give them

A Rather Unusual Doctor

Consider the 29-year-old doctor who longs for a marriage "affectif," a word difficult to translate, except, perhaps, as 'emotional."

Now why would this young doctor need to turn to the Havas Contact people on the Boulevard Haussemao in Paris, to find a young woman who would agree that a "marriage affectif" is a good idea? In America, everyone knows that 29-year-old physicians have to fight off marriageable women, nurses and heiresses among them. Perhaps this French Marcus Welby is not telling the ageocy everything. Surely it cannot be that he spends so

Surely it cannot be that he spends so much time in the wards of a Paris hospital that his social life suffers. A young American doctor might let this bappen to him, but never a Frenchman. But wait, the same agency advertises—in tha same column—a "jolie, blonde infirmière, 24." And this pretry, blond nurse seeks to marry a monsieur 30 to 44 years old.

This would seem a match made in Ooe reads oo about these lovelorn

French. Even a 31-year-old haut fonctionnaire. or high official, with fine qualities and elevated sentiments, a sporting type with an agreeable personality, is desperate enough to turn to the Sesam Agency in the Rue Danon. And the laboratory technician whom the ageocy deems "agreeable, charming, elegant, witty and cultivated," is having a hard time tinding a "monsieur with a strong personality."

The flavor of the ads varies from agency to agency. The Rewill Agency in Paris stresses socific physical characteristics. Summoned up is the instant visioo of a 31-year-old 5-foot 4-inch physical therapist with brown bair and green eyes who, up to this point, has sought vainly a "monsleur honest and frank."

Some agencies state forthrightly their chents' economic status, as in the case of tha 55-year-old widower, a 5-foot 6-inch metallurgist with one grown son, who makes 30,000 francs (about $6,800) a year, and has considerable property and other assets other assets.

So much for the agencies. At least half of the ads were placed by individuals, bolder people who wish to dispense with a middleman and will deal head-on with the unknown, via a box number or phone. Their ads have a more rakish quality. a more adventurous approach. Their goal is less likely to be the altar That Discreet Charm

"I am nice, I will protect you," one said. "Will you be my woman? Surprise me. I will surprise you. I am 40 years old, live an easy life, am sensitive to the discreet and swiling charm of the bourgeols woman that you are."

A "young woman" of 43 assures would-be friends that she is "feminine." She is looking for a companion 40 to 50 years old, stable, loyal and in the mood for a skiing vacation, expenses to be shared.

A "Vivaldi loyer, 32 seeks a female

A "Vivaldi lover, 32, seeks a female Vivaldi lover, for a Stravaganza for two." Another advertiser is "27, bearded but not machismo, tender, with sense of humor and seeks nonconformist woman to break

"Write to the magazine reference $583100, if you are very pretty and intelligent, but alone, like me, who at 43 is a bachelor with a good physique who wishes to find a true frieod and more."

And "a charming young woman of 29, seositive to people and things, is looking for a tender and esthetic companion who loves to savor life and live it fully." So there they are in France, the land of love and lovers, looking eagerly in their mailboxes and listening for their telephooes: the 34-year-old university professor, the widower with a 12-year-old daughter; the teacher of guitar; the generous, sporting 50-year-old; the cultivated 42-year-old woman with a loving nature; the tracks sincers and loving not professors. year-old woman with a loving nature; the sweet, sincere and lucid 20-year-old teacher; the 5-foot 5-inch Catholic mining engineer; the serious, agreeable young woman; the sensitive divorced woman, and the svelte, sporting type with graying temples.

Perhaps these lonely people will find one another, whether it be by advertisement or by accident. Whether it be for an hour or a lifetime Whether 10 go an hour or a lifetime. Whether to to the movies or to the priest. In an enonymous world, they had the courage to do something about their loneliness. But they just don't seem very French.

This new Savarin is more ra special grind.

It's a special taste. We know New Yorkers like bigger, nicher flavor from their coffee. So Savarin blends to give you the taste you want.

Savarin adds extra quantities of premium Colombian beans and roasts them a touch longer to bring out the deep down flavor in each bean. Then we grind them a special way for your automatic drip coffeemaker.

The result is a taste that's deep and satisfying, but never bitter. A flavor you never got from your automatic before.

Try this new Savarin in your automatic drip coffeemaker and see for yourself. You can't improve on Savarin. But now you can make it better.

Opportunities, Here and Abroad, to Educate Your Palate

One of the most handsome wine shops in New York City has a magnificent tasting room in its basement with racks for each taster's glasses, roomy counters for each guest, even special io-

dividual lighting to make checking the color of wine

The tasting room sits un-used because New York State law firbids the consumption of any liquor on the premises of a retail licensee. The room was built a few years ago in a more optimistic time, when tediluvian liquor laws might be changed to take cognizance of the new interest in

That never happened and the handsome tasting room was forgotten until the other day when a letter arrived from the Académie du Vin in

The academy, as related here previously, is the off-sboot of a wineshop, Caves de la Madeleine, in a picturesque, 18th-century shap-ping arcade, the Cité Berryer, around the corner from the Place de la Madeleine. Needless to say, one hand washes cent case discount to all stuthe other quite deftly in the dents enrolled in academy Cité Berryer. Academy students become Caves customers and vice versa.

Now the academy has teamed up with one of the new Paris conking schools, La Varenne, to offer an evening course of six menus of reginnal cooking and wines. Chef Michel Marolleau demonstrates the preparation of each dish and the acad-emy's Steven Spurrier conducts a tasting of wines ap-propriate to that dish. In additioo, the Caves de courses. This, too, would be forbidden in New York. Not that alert retailers have not found ways to circumvent some of the restrictions, but it is an area where it would be preferable to have the state working as promoter rather than watchdog.

The cooking and wine course, incidentally, costs $50 for six sessions. It is cur-rently in progress. If it is a success there undoubtedly will be courses in the future.

For someone with an overwhelming urge to take a wine course very scon, there is one beginning April 22. The group leaves for Paris that day and will spend the next month there, in Burgundy and in Bordeaux and the whole thing costs unly $3,270 plus air fare. The promotional literature speaks of "The University of Wine," which is appropriate because a master's degree from Har-vard couldn't cost too much

The trip is being arranged by William I. Kaufman, who bills himself as the world's most published gastrocome. The author of a book on champagne and a number of cookbooks, Mr. Kaufman has lined up a staggering array of French wine talent with which to confront his students. There will be tastings and more tastings and visits to more wine cellars than most wine buyers undergo in a similar period of time. Penny-pinchers may limit themselves to either the Burgundy part of the trip ($2,-293 plus air fare), or to the Bordeaux portion ($2,498 plus air fare). Be advised: The schedule is tight. Take Lay 14, for example: "Early morning, at lessure. Late morning, depart for Lyons. Noon, free firs stroll and snack." And so furth. The hotels and the ex-perts are all first-rate and. undoubtedly, so will be the food and wines. All you need is the $4,000 to $5,000 per person the whole thing will probably cost. If your credit union won't come up with the money in time for the April departure, others are sched-uled for May 20, Sept. 15 and Oct. 15, if there is sufficient interest.

Meanwhile, back at home, the Four Seasons Reslaurant bere continues its intermittent series of activities combining wine promotion and education with its own food. On the 22d of this month, the restaurant will feature a dinner with California wices from the barrel.

Shateen of California's leading wineries will offer their new vintge wines, directly from the cask, along with older, bottled vintages of the same wine. Owners or winemakers will comment in their wines as they are tasted. Listed particioants in-clude Beaulieu, Callaway, Chappellet, Chateau St. Jean, Clos du Val, Freemark Ab-Clos du Val, Freemark Abbey, Mirassou, Louis Martini, Robert Mondavi, The Monterey Vineyards, Pardocci, Inseph Phelps, Ridge, Simi, Sterling and Weote. $50 whole costs The

Like most of these things. however, if you bave the $50 and are interested, you probably can get an invitation.

Finally, it is time more again for the annual Heublein wine auction. Or, more ac-curately, it is time fur the previews, at which prospecpreviews, at which prospec-tive buyers ogle, sniff and sip the rarities going on the block at the auction proper. The anctinn will be held at the Rnyal Sonestar Hotel in New Orleans on May 27.
Previews will be of the Drake Hotel, Chicago, Merch
31; the Stanfard Court Hotel. San Francisco, April 20; tel. San Francisco, April 25, the Parker House in Boston, May 5, and on May 26, the day before the auction, at the Royal Smesta.

Among the wines to be offered this year are Beau-lieu and Inglemook wines from the cellar of the Pot Luck Restaurant in Berkeley, which shut down in 1974. The vintages go back to 1954. There will be bottles of Chateau Lafitre-Rothschild going back to 1806, ourgun-dies from the firm of Bou-chard Pere & Fils dating from 1864, and old sauternes from 1858. For some reason, oone nf the actinn will be in New York this year. Pernaps last year's preview, which degenerated into something of a free-for-all, discouraged the Heublein crowd. Or perhaps it was the frequent comments from vnous New York York buyers that oargains were almost as rare as the wines. No doubt about it, this is a tough town.

Institution-Sized Discounts For Individual Investors

Institutions are now getting great commis-sion discounts from your broker. If you're not getting them too, there is something you can do about it. Do business at Source,

All we require is two things. You pick your own stocks and eventually do at least $250 worth of commission business with us.

If you can do that, you'll get mstitution-sized discounts of 30% to 75% off from previous fixed rates on your stock commissions and up to 35% off from previous CBOE rates on your option commissions.

You will get institutional quality service from us, too. Our full account services include cash, margin, option, short and C.O.D. accounts with each account insured for up to $300,000.

Plus, you will get a service even institutions don't get from your broker — a choice of either Third Market or Stock Exchange executions with Third Market executions confirmed immediately while you are on the telephone.

Bull Market and Convertible Issues

BY ROBERT METS

Bull markets eventually lead comporations to redeem convertible issues as they move to reduce interest costs and simplify their financial structures.

The holder who fails to convert prior to the deadline usually loses money—though rarely so much as is likely in a redemption amounced last week.

That redemption is of Engelhard Minerals and Chemicals Corporation $4.25 conicals Corporation $4.25 convertible preferred shares.

Those who convert will receive 6.3 shares of common stock valued at $193, compared with $103 in cash for each share of the preferred that is redeemed. Thus a holder of 100 shares will lose $9,000 if the deadline is missed.

One observer who watches One observer who watches these things commented that this is "by far" the largest percentage loss oo any convertible he has seen since in many mooths. The last day to convert, by the way, is April I and the conversion agent is Morgan Guaranty.

Meanwhile, however, a reader has pointed out that it is not always to the investor's advantage to convert before deadline. In a case regarded as highly un-usual, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Inc. is offering more to those who allow the deadline to elapse than to those who convert.

- M-L-ni is redeeming its percent convertible deben-tures due in 1993 on March 31. it will pay 5.,045 for each $1,000 debentures presented to the agent, Chase Manhattan Bank, on or after that date. By contrast, those who convert the M-G-M debentures will get 55 shares of M-G-M common, worth just $777 yesterday.

There is a third possibility in these cases—a conversion rate that is virtually identical to the redemption price. The current Teledyne Inc. redemption of 3½ percent convertible debentures due in 1992 is a case in point.

Redemption after the deadline, April 5, will pay the holder $1,032, while conversion of the debentures into common shares will bring almost precisely the same sum—$1,040. The deadline for Converting is March 22.

elisewhere. Members of the New York Stock Exchange argue that professional trades distort prices and that this is parbrices and that this is per-ficularly disconcerning when an off-board trade sets a daily high or low. These prices can lead the unitiated to believe they got poor re-suits, the critics add. "Differences in market brices on different exchanges are constantly, studied by professional arbitragers," one member said. Generally, they are broker-dealers who are in a position to buy in one mara position to buy in one mar-ket and sell in another if a price differential exists.

"I conclude that in the vast majority of cases it is the broker-dealer who gets the better execution for his own account at the expense of the individual investor, who would have received a better price had his order been exe-cuted on the New York Stock

Just how much business the New York Stock Ex-change is sharing is also dis-puted. Last week, Michael Tobin, president of the Mid-west Stock Exchange, said that 40 percent of the trading in the 50 most active Rig Board-listed stocks occurred in other markets.

The Big Board said that its studies of the consolidated tape showed that 76 percent of the trading in the 50 most or the trading in the 50 most active common stocks in the second half of 1975 was done on the Big Board. In January of this year, it adds, the Big Board's share of trading volume in the 50 most active stocks was even larger—"about 80 percent."

Views Vary on Move by Lever

Although it happened way back in February, the 10th to be exact, there is still talk in agency circles about the decision of Lever Brothers to hegin to handle its own media planning and buying. It is the largest advertiser to make such a move.

This sort of thing happens in cycles, according to Joseph W. Ostrow, senior vice president of Young & Rubicam, who noted that a lot of companies give up in-house ac-tivities and go back to ageocies but nobody hears about it. Sanford E. Reisenbach, ex-ecutive vice president of Grey Advertising, agreed be said, "as many move out

Heads of agency media de-Heads of agency media de-partneots, which they are, would tend to agree also with George Simko, senior vice president of Benton & Bowles, who sees the Lever move and all similar moves as "an effort at saving money."

"They think they can make significant economics," he said, "but you've got to lose said, "but you've got to lose in the areas of expertise and objectivity. And if you're clearly guided by economics and a desire to save money your objectives get rather carrow. And the agencies will be looking to see what other services have to be reduced to accommodate the reduced commissions."

Lever's formal, and short, announcement of its plans said that beginning July I it would begin taking unto itself the media function for the said that the s a selected number of brands and then add to them.

Lever was asked et the tima if this decision would effect its current buying for spot TV, which is the most costly form of media buying. It said it planned "no changes." The J. Walter Thompson Company buys spot for all Lever brands,

Network buying currently being bandled by three Lever agencies, each one of which is assigned a network, is far less expensive than spot. Louis T. Fischer, senior vice president of Dancer-Fitzgerald-Sample, figures that a company could bandle that with one "very top" oetwork negotiator ("a really good man,"), an assistant, secretary and a efw clerical assist-The other expeose would be the buying of research materials. By contrast, notes Annette Mendola, vice president-broadcast of Needham, Har-per & Steers, a spot buying operation must include supervisors, buyers, assistant buyers, an estimating depart-ment and an accorating de-

A big advertiser would require seven to nine buyers, according to industry sources, and good spot buyers can make $20,000 a year.

In all there are 70 shows

In all there are 70 shops so far, occupying from 400 to 12,000 square feet. Construction is still in progress, be about 140 stores.

None of this is what the owner, Hyman Muss, had in mind when he bought the White property three years ago. The seller was the Pennwalt Comparison which had

ago. The seller was the Penn-walt Corporation, which had acquired S.S. White in 1968 and has since moved the operation to Holmdel, N.J., at a loss to Staten Island of about a thousand jobs. The Muss organization— Hyman Muss & Sons—paid $900,000 for the property.

Mr. Muss said last week that he intended to spend a mil-lion dollars more to demolish the buildings. The purchase gave them 60 acres of real estate with 2,000 feet of waestate with 2,000 feet of water frontage along Lower New York Bay, Half of this acreage consisted of the land and buildings of the White property. The other half the Musses already owned on the other side of an abutting waterway known as Lemon waterway known as Lemon housing. The Muss plan called for 3,500 apartments in 10 buildings of 30 stories each, a scale and density well beyond anything prevailing in southern Staten Island. 'It was obviously out of scale and it had no supplied to the scale and it had not supplied to the scale and of scale and it had no support from anyone required to review it." said Wilbur to review it," said Wilbur Woods, director of the Staten Island office of the City Planning Commission.

"It would have been a catastrophe," said Mr. Muss. Recession would have undercut his plans for so massive a development even if community and city opposition had not thwarted it. When builders' thoughts turn to using factory space for retail stores the model they generally cite is Ghir-adelli Square in San Francis-co. So it is with the Muss organization, which says has set out to create a Ghir-adelli Square at the foot of Seguine Avenue. Working with four buildings put up ar varying periods since the 1380's, the architects have cast-iron columns of the old central building and created an ornamental iron stairway at the rear of a spacious entrance. Gaily decorated stores are placed to right and left of central passages through the first and second floor.

"There is space to extend the entry to the rear so that it opens on a landscaped. court and the water," said Carl Heimberger of the office of A.H. Salkowitz of Jamaica, the architects. The ar-chitects even think in terms of boat slips and ferry access some day.

For the present Mr. Muss is happy to be gelting $4 a square foot for space, up from $1.50 to $2 in the begin-ning, but well below rates in standard shopping centers. About 75 percent of the opera-tors in such low-rent space are in business for the first Will shoppers journev to such a remote oulpost? Mr. Muss was asked.

The former S. S. White plant at Princes Bay on Staten Island. It has been converted into a "trade mart" by the developers.

Yes, he said, because they are drawn to the bargain prices regularly advertised in the borough's newspaper, The Staten Island Advance.

"We put in a fortune of money here and now we see the light at the end of the tunnel," be said.

Merck, a huge drug company based in New Jersey, also disclosed that part of the overseas payments had been "mistakenly" deducted from Federal income tax returns for years prior to 1974. The Internal Revenue Service, it also said, is enne Service, it also said, is exploring the possibility of conducting its own investigation for possible tax fraud.

In a policy statement, Merck said it would no longer make any payments to any govern-ment officials or agent to pro-mote sales of its products and that it would no longer contribute to any political campaign at any level in the United States.

Meanwhile, the American Home Products Corporation. a producer of non-prescription medicines and food products, told the S.E.C. that political contributions were made out-side the United States in four countries. In two cases, they were of uncertain legality and in a third no opinion has been sought "because of its present political instability."

FED PROPOSES CURBS ON BANK C.D. RATES

WASHINGTON, March 9 (AP) -The Federal Reserve Board proposed today regulations aimed at blocking banks from paying unlimited interest rates on certificates of deposits purchased with funds pooled for investment purposes.

The proposal contained exemptions for some pooling operations, such as bank trust departments, an attorney acting as custodian for funds or certificates of deposits purchased by mutual funds.

But generally, the proposal would limit the interest pay-able on funds pooled with the apparent purpose of circum venting interest rate ceilings or certificates of deposit in de-nominations smaller than $100,

Under current regulations banks can pay no more than 7.75 per cent on certificates of There is no ceiling on rates that can be paid on prime deposits of $100,000 or more.

The auditor, Arthur Andersen & Company, has nonetheless been endorsed by the Merck board to continue examining Merck's books.

These disclosures were made by a special committee appoint and an excellent mix of basic and promotional sales and a minimal level of markdowns are local structured. The company and charged with investigating Merck's previously reported payments to foreign governments and agencies, which totaled $3.6 million during the 1968-75 period.

The company said its large fourth-quarter profit rise "must be viewed in light of the extremely poor fourth quarter a year earlier when profit marbels are least one of the $104.8 million, or $1.504.8 million, or $1.64 a share, or 91.7 percent and of the $104.8 million, or $1.64 a share, or 91.7 percent and of the $104.8 million, or $1.64 a share, or 91.7 percent and of the $104.8 million, or $1.64 a share, or 91.7 percent and of the $104.8 million, or $1.64 a share, or 91.7 percent and of the $104.8 million, or $1.64 a share, or 91.7 percent and of the $104.8 million, or $1.64 a share, or 91.7 percent and of the $104.8 million, or $1.64 a share, or 91.7 percent and of the $104.8 million, or $1.64 a share, or 91.7 percent and of the $104.8 million, or $1.64 a share, or 91.7 percent and of the $104.8 million, or $1.64 a share, or 91.7 percent and of the $104.8 million, or $1.64 a share, or 91.7 percent and of the $104.8 million, or $1.64 a share, or 91.7 percent and of the $104.

Business Briefs

A.&P. Expects Operating Gains

MONTVALE; N. J., March 9 (Reuters)—The Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company said today that it expected fourth-quarter operating earnings to be "slightly in the black" before adjustments for store closings. The company said sales for the 14-week period coded Feb. 28 were $1.67 billion, up 9.7 percent from the $1.704 billion in last year's 13-week fourth quarter.

A. & P. said it hoped to return to "industry-profit levels" in five years, but "this cannot be expected in fiscal 1976 and probably not in fiscal 1977." In last year's fourth quarter, A. & P. lost $179 million, including a $200 million provision for store closings. The company had a pre-tax profit of 31.7 million dollars before the closings and a $31.5 million tax credit.

Dominicans Threaten to Hold Sugar SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic, March 9 (UPI)

The Dominican Government threatened today to stockpile this year's entire sugar harvest if necessary to wait for better prices.

The Dominican Republic became the second major cane-producing nation to announce the possible warehousing of this year's cron to await e price increase. The Philippines, largest exporter to the United States, had announced a similar policy earlier, Rafael David Rodriguez, director of the nation's Sugar

Council, which operates 12 of the nation's 14 sugar mills, said, "The market looks favorable for the producing nations. If necessary, we will stockpile our entire production but we will not sell at prices lower than those we consider optimum." The Dominican Republic produces about 1,450,000 short tons of sugar a year. So far this season, 800,000 tons have been milled.

D. & H. Accepts New Trackage Rights
WASHINGTON, March 9 (AP)—The United States Railway Association said today that the Delaware and Hudson Railroad had agreed to accept trackage rights over key Northeast and Midwest rail lines that would give the carrier new operating authority into several major cities.

The agreement is a key part of the Government's current plan to provide private rail competition to the Consolidated Rail Corporation, the quasi-Government railroad it hopes to build by consolidating the Penn Central, the Erie kawanna and five other bankrupt system

The acquisition of trackage rights means the Delaware and Hudson will be able to provide service to Buffalo,

Trading in Delaware Bank Stock Halted WASHINGTON, March 9 (AP)-The Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation temporarily suspended today trading in securities of the Farmers Bank of the State of Delaware, which bad reported losses of $17 million for 1975. The F.D.I.C. said suspension of over-the-counter trading in securities had been requested by the bank, which has headquarters in Dover, Del. The bank, in which the state holds 49.3 percent of the stock, is seeking at least $20 million in new capital to shore up its finances. Burton Raimi, an acting deputy general counsel of the F.D.I.C., said the bank requested the suspension, and the F.D.I.C. agreed, because "neither they

TV: 'Entertainer' on NBC Tonight

By JOHN J. O'CONNOR One helpful fact to remember in approaching "The Entertainer" tonight on NBC at 9 is that the production maintains only tenuoos coonections with John Osborne's.
"The Entertainer." Just about everything except the names has been changed. The process is standard for television. A "property" is acquired and is inevitably transformed, slightly or radically, and is then offered as a legitimate facsimila of the original. For various reasons, mostly le-gal, the script is usually decrihed as, "based on" or "sug-gested by." Elliott Baker's "teleplay" for "The Entar-tainer" carries the credits from the play by John Os,

That play, first mounted nearly 20 years ago, was set in England during the Suez crisis of the 1950's. Archie Rice, a seedy soog-and-dance man, was nffered as a sym-bol of the British Empire in decline. The television ver-sion has been transposed to an amusement park in Santa Cruz, Calif., in 1944. Archie, still a seedy song-and-dance man, bas been reduced to more purely domestic dimen-

Accepting that much with a minimum of righteous in-dignation, the viewer may teeter on the brink of some valuable perspective. In fact, Mr. Osborne's play, for all of its inventiveness, was flawed. The central symbol finally proved incapable of supporting the intended weight. A full version was generally inediocre, Both pro-ductions were made memorable only through the tour de, force brilliance of Laurence Offvier's performance as Archie.

By eliminating political significance from the play, the television version is admittedly smaller in both am-bitioo and impact. But what is left proves surprisingly sturdy within the borders of a television screen. And, given the competition—The Six Million Dollar Man" or

"Cannon" — it threatens to seem almost profound. The casting, overseen by Lynn Stalmaster, is exceptionally good, Jack Lemmon captures the deedness in Archie's eyes while moving frantically with the antomatic gestures of a ventrilomanc gestines of a ventural quist's aging dummy. Sada Thompson is Archie's second and long-sufferiog wife, the "poor pathetic thing" surviving on equal parts of hitterness and sentimentality. And have a poor its dancer is Ray Bolger, the dancer, is Billy, Archie's retired father, whose own stage reputation still leaves Archie in the theater shadows, All three Television's "The Enter-tainer" is not profound. But, given the boundaries it has drawn for itself, the produc-tion provides an admirably persistent, occasionally quite moving portrait of defeat in a world of shabby fantasies. The basic attitude is quite different but no less moving

How to Write a Great Play

By William Saroyan

[William Saroyan's prize-winning play "The Time of Your Life" will be revived on Theater in America Wednesday, March 10, on most PBS stations.]

The way to write a great play is tha same as tha now you're taking home six more books!' " way to write a poor play.

needed for any kind of writing: paper, typewriter, aspect of life that I had experienced, dreamed pen or pencil. And you use these matarials and and imagined, which in turn had been supple-

Before the age of 12 I wrote plays and poems how to sneak in. on throw-away paper trom the trash barrels behind Fresno office buildings—the stuff in those barrels of 1918 and 1919 would be welcome by the Smithsonian Institution, for the American Archives of Waste and Wonder. The plays and the poems that I wrote on the throw-away paper were

I didn't want them to be throw-away works. I wanted them to be classics. I wanted them to be like the works of Aesop, Moses, Socrates and Shakespeara; but no matter how I tried, everything I wrote came out plain, straight and simple: about my world, my time, my family, my friends, my acquaintances, but especially about myselt, a man nobody in town knew very much about, excepting that I was always in trouble at Emerson School and that after school I sold the Evening

I myself, however, had not the slightest doubt that I was somebody.

I chose writing as the means by which to demonstrate this truth, and began to write, first in pen and ink on throw-away paper, and then, when I had worked a week as a Postal Telegraph messenger, I bought an upright Underwood for 15 full dollars, and began to write on the typewriter touch system, which I had learned at Tech High.

Even so, my writing was still throw-away. It was still not classic.

My writing always seemed to say something like, "I went up L Street to Mariposa, over to Eya Street and on up to the Public Library where the whistle while I was looking at the books on the Compare that, if you will, with the merest triffe by the man the school I attanded was named after: Ralph Waldo Emerson. When Ralph said something, it was something, and it was just as good as a sermon.

I know, because I began to read Ralph in earnest just last summer in Paris, because at an old bookshop there was one volume from a whole set that was tor sale for 50 centimes, so I gladly paid my dime and bought the book, and wow, how Ralph could write. No wonder they put his name on the school. He said stuff that was philosophical, not stuff like, "On my way home from the Public Library a funny thought came into my head just when I came face to face with my old pal Hap Farmanian. He said, 'What are you laughing about?' And I said, 'Hap, we've all died and we've gone to heaven and Jesus sees us and says. Well, now, this is going too far, you Fresno kids go on back to Fresno, or go to hell. So Hap said, 'You nies. want to know something? You're crazy. Everybody knows it you read books you go crazy. fantasy really make a pretty good mixture. And out of that mixture came my writing-totally woman at the desk told me twice not to hum or unknown. Who did I think I was, at the age of 13, the editors of magazines in New York?

I didn't like it when all of the essays and stories I sent out came right back, but I didn't stop writing either. I just stopped sending the stuff to the editors-those fatheads, what did they know about anything?

I did my work, and the editors did thairs. I wouldn't change and they wouldn't change. But then suddenly they did change, and in 1934, when I was 26 years old, my first book was published, 26 short stories.

"it's a throw-away play, and it gets thrown away again and again but comes right back and leans against the brick wall of an abandoned brewery and is real and uncancelable.

"The Time of Your Life" came very near not buying a typewriter and mailing manuscripts to being performed, and very near not being permitted to be an American and a world classic, but it "The Time of Your I life" on national television did-with no pushing and consplring on my part.

It's a throw-away play, and it gets thrown away again and again but comes right back and leans against the brick wall of an abandoned brewery and is real and uncancelable.

I wrote it in six days early in May of 1939 while stopping in New York on my way to Europe for a living. You're kidding yourselves and belittling a grea people who are already belittled almost to the point ot nullification.

The way to write a great play is not the problem at all. The problem is how do you get past the frauds and all-around incompetents who from sheer force of ambition occupy all the positions r power, and prevent, obstruct, neutralize, distort t otherwise prohibit the performance of a gree play aftar it is writtan.

Well, what play would that be? Well, it would any play by me.

Whenevar I have said this, people have looks at me as if each of them was Hap Farmanian over again back on L Street in Fresno: "You wa to know something? You're crazy."

After the first two plays in 1939 came "Love Old Sweet Song," with Walter Huston. "Th Beautiful People" with Eugene Loring. "Acro: the Board on Tomorrow Morning," with Canac Lee.
